Watts Hasn't Changed Much Since Destructive 1965 Rioting

By GENE HANDBAKER
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five years ago thousands of blacks vented fury against a host of frustrations in the massive Watts riots. Now the people of the area say little has changed. An investigative committee made many recommendations. There were scores of government, private and self-help projects—many of them short-lived. Some progress noted.

In some areas there has been genuine progress. A new hospital is being built, there are more black-owned businesses and police-community relations efforts have been intensified. But successes haven't been dramatic or eye-catching. In appearance, the city's south-central district is five years shabbier, except for scattered apartment-commercial construction. And among the people, the same old frustrations are cited.

$40 Million Damage
The riots that began five years ago next Tuesday lasted six days, cost 34 lives and $40 million in property damage. A governor's commission said that during the worst three days 10,000 Negroes looted the streets, beating whites, overturning and burning cars, shooting at police and firemen. "Nobody gave a damn," a 21-year-old Negro recalls. "They felt they were getting back for all the bad things done to them for so long."

Says City Councilman Thomas Bradley, a Negro: "With the right ingredients Watts will explode into another disruption. The people in Watts feel people outside the ghetto don't give a damn about them."

Blacks 'Understand'
"People in Watts aren't bubbling over with enthusiasm and optimism, but I doubt there'll be another 1965," says John Mack, Urban League director. "The blacks know they're the ones who got shot; that it's their homes that got burned down. However, this doesn't mean they won't be trouble."

The governor's commission blamed the riots on, among other things, unemployment, inadequate schooling for disadvantaged children, hatred of police, poor public transportation, consumer exploitation and inferior housing.

The riots—with their 1,032 injured, 3,952 arrests and more than 600 buildings set afire or looted—involved only about 2 per cent of the city's Negro population. They erupted across 46.5 square miles of south Los Angeles but took their name from the core, Watts.

Area Looks Peaceful
Today the congested ghetto heart, named for a man who operated a lively business there in the 1880s, looks peaceful in the summer sun.

Along the main street old men gossip from overturned soft-drink crates. Younger ones play cards or drink wine beneath the so-called "freedom tree," a shady maple where, some say, the 1965 holocaust was first discussed.

Workmen erected colorful booths in Will Rogers Park for the Watts Summer Festival now under way. Since the riots it has been an annual event, with beauty contest, rodeo, carnival rides, art displays, films, and other programs to show "the pride of the people."

The festival drew crowds of fewer than 500 persons during the early days, despite the appearance of Mayor Sam Yorty and other officials.

The Watts Writers Theater—an outgrowth of novelist Budd Schulberg's post-riot workshop for aspiring writers—advises director Harry Doan's latest play, "The Iron Hand of Nat Turner," a festival event.

But residents say underneath nothing much really has changed.

Charcoal Alley Unchanged
"Charcoal Alley"—as the main business street, East 103rd was called when much of it lay in ashes—is still shabby and undeveloped.

Jobless Rate Now 5 Per Cent, Tops Since '65

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate bounced back up to five per cent of the work force in July, highest rate in more than five years. The Labor Department reported today.

The jobless rate had also hit five per cent in May and then declined to 4.7 per cent in June.

The total number of unemployed in July was 4.5 million, an actual drop of 160,000, but it usually declines more sharply in July and the Bureau of Labor Statistics figured it as a rise of 215,000 on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The nation's total employment rose nearly one million last month to 80.2 million, but the bureau said the significant non-farm payroll category was down 900,000 to a total of 79.3 million during the month.

The report said the rise in unemployment affected mostly women over 25 and men under 25.

Strategy Shift May Aid Yanks

SAIGON (AP) — American officers today disclosed a shift in strategy and said because of it U.S. forces possibly could be reduced in the next 11 months more than the 150,000-man cut President Nixon has promised.

The shift puts South Vietnamese forces in blocking and patrolling roles along the Cambodian and Laotian borders, replacing American units which are being pulled back to the interior of South Vietnam.

One senior officer said South Vietnamese regulars made "real strides in some areas in the last six months of 1969 and the first three months of 1970." He said their performance in the operations in Cambodia "provided sort of a dramatic revelation of the progress that had really been made."

Officers said the takeover by South Vietnamese forces of large chunks of border regions once patrolled by U.S. troops is proceeding well. They said it could pave the way for enlargement of the American withdrawal program before next June 30.

2 Library Books Clue To Future?

ST. CLAIR, Mich. (AP) — Two books spotted sitting side by side on the shelves of a St. Clair, Mich., library appear to offer the key to financial success by virtue of their titles alone.

But the titles don't cover all the consequences.

One book is entitled "How to Plan Your Financial Future." Next to it is a book entitled "Counterfeiting."

Independent Postal System Near; Stamps To Cost More

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has released its grip on the U.S. mails after nearly two centuries and the Post Office looks forward to shedding hand-locks that prompted one postmaster general to say the department was in "a race with disaster."

More than two years after a presidential commission recommended it, and more than one year after the legislation was introduced, Congress sent Thursday to President Nixon a bill creating an independent U.S. Postal Service.

The White House hailed the occasion as "a landmark day and a landmark piece of legislation for users of the postal service and postal workers," and said Nixon would sign the measure next week.

Nine-Man Board
It provides for establishment of the corporate-like federal agency within a year and a retroactive 8 per cent pay raise for postal workers. It also makes likely an increase in first class postage rates—from the six-cent to an eight-cent stamp—early next year.

The new Postal Service will be run by a nine-man, presidentially-appointed board of governors who will select a postmaster general and deputy postmaster general.

Rates will be set not by Congress as for the past 181 years, but by a five-member rate commission with the approval of the board of governors.

Ex-Officer Claims:

Drinking, Gambling Widespread On Pueblo

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — The former executive officer of the USS Pueblo says that although Navy regulations prohibit drinking and gambling on board ships there was "plenty of both" on the intelligence vessel captured by North Korea in 1968.

Explosives Not Aboard
"Explosives that could have sunk the ship before it was captured were left behind in Japan because there was more interest in partying than in getting them on board," Edward R. Murphy said Thursday.

For the same reason, a chemical that could have been used to destroy metal containers crammed with intelligence data was not brought on the ship, he said in an interview.

Former Marine Sgt. Robert J. Chicca, also a former Pueblo crewman and now a student at the University of California at San Diego, agreed in part with Murphy's charges.

Off-Duty Drinking
"But the drinking was during off duty hours and did not affect the performance of the crew," said Chicca, a Korean language specialist on the ship. He said several of the 82 crewmen played "penny ante" and other games while on duty.

Their comments followed a televised interview Wednesday during which Murphy stated that drinking and gambling on the Pueblo was not brought out during last year's investigation of the incident "because it was not part of the inquiry."

"The board was only interested in the circumstances surrounding the seizure of the Pueblo on that day," he said. "There was no drinking on the day the ship was captured."

Doesn't Blame Bucher
Murphy declined to blame the skipper of the Pueblo, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, for leaving the explosives and chemicals, saying, "That man has suffered enough."

But Murphy said Bucher followed a work-hard, play-hard philosophy and "tried to impose his will on others from time to time." He added, "I don't believe any man should try to force others into accepting his drinking and playing habits."

Bucher, now at the Navy Post Graduate School in Monterey, Calif., was not available for comment.

To Speed Delivery

The new system is designed to modernize and streamline delivery of the mails, and eventually to eliminate the huge deficits that have been an annual feature of the Post Office budget for the past 16 years.

Rather than going to Congress for higher wages, postal employees will bargain with the board of governors through their unions, which will have all rights given to labor organizations in private industry except to strike and to form a union shop.

Mansfield Says ICC Industry-Oriented

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called today for the abolition of the Interstate Commerce Commission, charging the agency has become too industry-oriented to protect the public's interest.

The Montana senator in a prepared Senate speech that some of ICC's activities should be discontinued and others incorporated into an agency in the Department of Transportation.

Mansfield accused the ICC of failing to protect the public's interest in regulating rail commerce, especially in Montana and other sparsely populated states of the West.

W. Germans, Russ OK Nonaggression Pact

Improved Ties With Red Bloc Nations Seen

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet and West German foreign ministers today initiated a new nonaggression treaty in which West Germany for the first time accepts the postwar loss of eastern German territory to Poland and the Soviet Union.

Chancellor Willy Brandt hopes the pact will open the way to improved relations with other nations of the Soviet bloc as well as with the Soviet Union.

German sources said the treaty is primarily an acceptance of the realities that have existed in Eastern Europe for many years. They said the real significance of the pact can only be measured by the future development of relations between Bonn and Moscow.

Treaty Initiated
West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko signed initials to the treaty during a 45-minute ceremony at the Spiridonov reception house. The two ministers had agreed on the text Thursday night after 11 days of negotiations in Moscow.

The treaty will be submitted Saturday to the West German Cabinet in Bonn, but there was no indication when it will be signed. Nor was it known when the text would be made public.

The treaty is a revision of a preliminary draft worked out by Gromyko and Egon Bahr, a special envoy from Brandt, in five months of talks that began last January. The pact is the key stone of Brandt's Ostpolitik, the policy of building new bridges of understanding between Bonn and Communist East Europe.

Force Ruled Out
The pact includes a renunciation of the use of force against each other and acceptance of present boundaries in Europe, including the Oder-Neisse line between Poland and East Germany.

Jarring Seeking To Get Mideast Talks Started

By The Associated Press
U.N. envoy Gunnar V. Jarring was seeking agreement between Arab and Israeli diplomats today on peace talk procedures, and sources in Jerusalem said the talks probably would get under way on the island of Cyprus in about 10 days.

Jarring is meeting in New York with the U.N. ambassador from Egypt, Jordan and Israel, whose governments all have accepted the U.S. proposal for a 90-day cease-fire and indirect negotiations with Jarring as the go-between.

In Tel Aviv, Israeli defense officials met to work out details of a cease-fire plan, and reliable sources said it could take effect "in a matter of days."

The Israelis were reportedly giving serious consideration to a U.S. suggestion that Egypt and Israel police the cease-fire themselves. But the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram said Egypt had turned down the idea, apparently because it called for flights by Israeli reconnaissance planes over Egyptian territory as well as Egyptian flights over Israeli territory.

Informants in New York said the United States was negotiating with Arab and Israeli officials in Cairo, Jerusalem and Washington on procedures for policing the cease-fire and the ban on military buildings that is to accompany it.

Kennedy Cousins Given 1 Year To 'Straighten Out'

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — A judge has told two young Kennedy cousins that marijuana possession charges against them will be dropped in September 1971 if they stay out of trouble.

Dist. Court Judge Henry L. Murphy said his action in the cases of the two 16-year-olds, Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and R. Sargent Shriver III, was the usual procedure for juveniles the first time they are brought to court on such charges.

He declined to find them innocent or guilty of charges that they were delinquent by reason of possession of marijuana, and said the continuances he granted them until September 1971 had the "effect of probation."

Relatives In Court
Present with the youths during a 20-minute session before Judge Murphy were Kennedy's mother, Ethel, and uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Shriver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Sargent Shriver Jr.

By law, juvenile cases are secret in Massachusetts. Judge Murphy spoke with reporters after the court session ended and authorized the release of a statement that the Kennedy and Shriver youths and 10 other juveniles who appeared before him had their cases continued.

Seven of the juveniles were accused of drug-law violations.

Judge Hears 'Facts'
The senior Shriver, a former U.S. ambassador to France and husband of Sen. Kennedy's oldest sister, Eunice, said after the hearing that the judge "heard all the facts."

"The boys were in court for the first time in their lives and now they're going home with their parents," he said.

Sen. Kennedy said only that Shriver's comments covered the case.

The cousins were answering summonses that were brought to their summer homes Tuesday night and ordered them to appear on charges of being in possession of marijuana July 10.

Cable Informer?
One version of the incident, gleaned from talks with some young summer residents of the area, was that an unidentified taxi driver was a police informer and linked the two Kennedy cousins to marijuana.

One young man said he heard that the taxi driver had taken the Kennedy youth and three friends, 60 miles to Cohasset from Hyannis Port July 10 on a trip to retrieve a pet falcon that had escaped from the Kennedy compound.

Several youths said the taxi driver had been seen several times in a vacant barn near the Kennedy compound, which is in Hyannis Port, a section of Barnstable.

Probe Under Way
Asked why the summonses had not been served earlier, Barnstable Police Sgt. Veri Setler said state police had been conducting an undercover investigation into drug use on Cape Cod for months.

He said agents made notations when they found someone in possession of drugs.

Setler said the investigation was considered finished Tuesday when summonses were served on the Kennedy cousins, three other juveniles, and 23 young adults ages 18 to 20.

Other police sources said no arrests were made July 10 because police wanted to investigate further.

Watts Hasn't Changed Much Since Destructive 1965 Rioting

By GENE HANDSAKER

Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Five years ago thousands of blacks vented fury against a host of frustrations in the massive Watts riots. Now the people of the area say little has changed. An investigative committee made many recommendations. There were scores of government, private and self-help projects—many of them short-lived.

Some Progress Noted

In some areas there has been genuine progress. A new hospital is being built, there are more black-owned businesses and police-community relations efforts have been intensified. But successes haven't been dramatic or eye-catching.

In appearance, the city's south-central district is five years shabbier, except for scattered apartment-commercial construction. And among the people, the same old frustrations are cited.

$40 Million Damage

The riots that began five years ago next Tuesday lasted six days, cost 34 lives and $40 million in property damage. A governor's commission said that during the worst three days 10,000 Negroes took to the streets, looting, beating whites, overturning and burning cars, shooting at police and firemen. "Nobody gave a damn," a 21-year-old Negro recalls. "They felt they were getting back for all the bad things done to them for so long."

Says City Councilman Thomas Bradley, a Negro: "With the right ingredients Watts will explore into another disruption. The people in Watts feel people outside the ghetto don't give a damn about them."

Blacks "Understand"

"People in Watts aren't bubbling over with enthusiasm and optimism, but I doubt there'll be another 1965," says John Mack, Urban League director. "The blacks know they're the ones who got shot; that it's their homes that got burned down. However, this doesn't mean there won't be trouble."

The governor's commission blamed the riots on, among other things, unemployment, inadequate schooling for disadvantaged children, hatred of police, poor public transportation, consumer exploitation and inferior housing.

The riots—with their 1,032 injured, 3,952 arrests and more than 600 buildings set afire or looted—involved only about 2 per cent of the city's Negro population. They erupted across 46.5 square miles of south Los Angeles but took their name from the core, Watts.

Today the congested ghetto heart, named for a man who operated a lively business there in the 1880s, looks peaceful in the summer sun.

Along the main street old men gossip from upturned soft-drink crates. Younger ones play cards or drink wine beneath the so-called "freedom tree," a shady maple where, some say, the 1965 holocaust was first discussed.

the Watts Summer Festival now under way. Since the riots it has been an annual event, with beauty contest, rodeo, carnival rides, art displays, films, and other programs to show "the pride of the people."

The festival drew crowds of fewer than 500 persons during the early days, despite the appearance of Mayor Sam Yorty and other officials.

The Watts Writers Theater—an outgrowth of novelist Budd Schulberg's post-riot workshop for aspiring writers—advises director Harry Dolan's latest play, "The Iron Hand of Nat Turner," a festival event.

But residents say underneath nothing much really has changed.

Charcoal Alley Unchanged

"Charcoal Alley"—as the main business street, East 103rd was called when much of it lay in ashes—is still shabby and undeveloped.

A new housing project will employ 400 and an industrial park 2,400.

"That's great," says Dolan, "but the unemployment rate here is higher than anywhere else in America."

The U.S. Department of Labor Statistics reports that unemployment in the Watts area has increased 61 per cent since the 1965 riot, while the rate for the Los Angeles area over-all has declined. The latest figures showed unemployment in Watts at 16.2 per cent, compared to 4.3 per cent for the whole city.

"Employment opportunities in Watts are almost nonexistent," Mack says.

The Watts Labor Community Action Committee operates two service stations, a poultry ranch, a credit union, a grocery store, various youth programs and a suburban residential educational center. Unions, government and private foundations provide the money.

"Education in Watts is even lousier than before the riots. The quality of teaching, books, supplies, everything, is far below that which whites get outside the ghetto," adds the Urban League's Mack.

In another area, Mack says problems between police and Watts residents have worsened since 1965.

Blacks say they resent the recent police killing of a young Negro whose pistol turned out to be a toy, and the mistake killing of two Mexican-Americans in a police search for a murder suspect.

But Inspector Thomas James, head of the police community relations program, says relations have improved greatly since the riots. The 77th Street precinct, which handles Watts, has the largest community relations staff in Los Angeles: 10 officers and three civilians.

Councilman Bradley complains, "There are few good grocery stores." But the chairman of the Los Angeles NAACP, the Rev. Richard Bass, says: "You can get decent food in Watts these days at comparatively low prices. Also, white-owned stores are getting better at promoting blacks to executive positions and pushing the type of products blacks want."

Jobless Rate Now 5 Per Cent, Tops Since '65

The jobless rate had also hit five per cent in May and then declined to 4.7 per cent in June.

The total number of unemployed in July was 4.5 million, an actual drop of 160,000, but it usually declines more sharply in July and the Bureau of Labor Statistics figured it as a rise of 275,000 on a seasonally adjusted basis.

The nation's total employment rose nearly one million last month to 89.2 million, but the bureau said the significant non-farm payroll category was down 900,000 to a total of 70.5 million during the month.

The report said the rise in unemployment affected mostly women over 25 and men under 25.

All the rise was among white workers, whose jobless rate moved up from 4.2 to 4.7 per cent while the rate for Negroes edged down from 8.7 to 8.3 per cent, the bureau said.

The white rate was the highest in six years.

Unemployment was also considerably higher among manufacturing workers, rising from 5.3 to 6 per cent, the highest in nearly seven years.

One such South Vietnamese force caught a large force of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers Thursday along the Cambodian border 50 miles west of Saigon. After pounding them with bombers and artillery, the Saigon troops reported 99 of the enemy killed, along with 13 South Vietnamese killed and 13 wounded.

Mansfield Says ICC Industry-Oriented

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield called today for the abolishment of the Interstate Commerce Commission, charging the agency has become too industry-oriented to protect the public's interest.

The Montanan said in a prepared Senate speech that some of ICC's activities should be discontinued and others incorporated into an agency in the Department of Transportation.

Mansfield accused the ICC of failing to protect the public's interest in regulating rail commerce, especially in Montana and other sparsely populated states of the West.

Railroads provided excellent passenger service in this country for many years, Mansfield noted.

"But in the face of modern methods, the need for new equipment and modernized management," he said, "the ICC has allowed the railroad giants to retreat from their position of responsibility in this area to concentrate on hauling freight."

Boxcar shortages have plagued shippers of Montana and other Western states for several decades, Mansfield said.

"What was once a seasonal situation is now with us constantly and the Western railroads are unable to give service at peak periods to the grain and lumber industries," he said. "Eastern rails are taking advantage of the Western rails by using borrowed boxcars which cost them less money than owning their own."

Despite protests from producers, shippers and consumers, freight rate increases have been approved repeatedly, Mansfield said.

Kennedy Cousins Given 1 Year To 'Straighten Out'

BARNSTABLE, Mass. (AP)

—A judge has told two young Kennedy cousins that marijuana possession charges against them will be dropped in September 1971 if they stay out of trouble.

Dist. Court Judge Henry L. Murphy said his action in the cases of the two 16-year-olds, Robert F. Kennedy Jr. and R. Sargent Shriver III, was the usual procedure for juveniles the first time they are brought to court on such charges.

He declined to find them innocent or guilty of charges that they were delinquent by reason of possession of marijuana, and said the continuances he granted them until September 1971 had the "effect of probation."

Relatives In Court

Present with the youths during a 20-minute session before Judge Murphy were Kennedy's mother, Ethel, and uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Shriver's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. Sargent Shriver Jr.

By law, juvenile cases are secret in Massachusetts. Judge Murphy spoke with reporters after the court session ended and authorized the release of a statement that the Kennedy and Shriver youths and 10 other juveniles who appeared before him had their cases continued. Seven of the juveniles were accused of drug-law violations.

Judge Hears 'Facts'

The senior Shriver, a former U.S. ambassador to France and husband of Sen. Kennedy's oldest sister, Eunice, said afterward that the judge "heard all the facts."

"The boys were in court for the first time in their lives and now they're going home with their parents," he said.

Sen. Kennedy said only that Shriver's comments covered the case.

The cousins were answering summonses that were brought to their summer homes Tuesday night and ordered them to appear on charges of being in possession of marijuana July 10.

Cabbie Informer?

One version of the incident, gleaned from talks with some young summer residents of the area, was that an unidentified taxi driver was a police informer and linked the two Kennedy cousins to marijuana.

One young man said he heard that the taxi driver had taken the Kennedy youth and three friends 60 miles to Cohasset from Hyannis Port July 10 on a trip to retrieve a pet falcon that had escaped from the Kennedy compound.

Several youths said the taxi driver had been seen several times in a vacant barn near the Kennedy compound, which is in Hyannis Port, a section of Barnstable.

Probe Under Way

Asked why the summonses had not been served earlier, Barnstable Police Sgt. Verl Setler said state police had been conducting an undercover investigation into drug use on Cape Cod for months.

He said agents made notations when they found someone in possession of drugs.

Setler said the investigation was considered finished Tuesday when summonses were served on the Kennedy cousins, three other juveniles, and 23 young adults ages 18 to 20.

Other police sources said no arrests were made July 10 because police wanted to investigate further.

The bill empowers the State Public Health Department to make grants and loans to employers of migrant farm workers for the improvement and construction of housing.

Local Soldier Gets Welcome

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Baker, 306 S. 10th St., are indeed proud of their son, so proud, in fact, that they want to show everyone in the area just how proud they really are.

When their son, James R. Baker, 20, arrived in Escanaba Thursday morning after serving with the United States Army in Vietnam for the past year, he was greeted by a huge sign displaying the words, "Jim, Welcome Home From Vietnam," which had been erected in the Baker's yard.

Jim, who graduated from Holy Name High School in 1968, worked at the Harnischfeger Corp. for a while before volunteering for the draft. He entered military service on March 6, 1969, and received his basic and advanced individual training at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Jim arrived in Vietnam on Aug. 2, 1969. While serving with the 1st Cavalry Division, he spent time in both Vietnam and Cambodia and was awarded the Bronze Star, the Army Commendation Medal and the Air Medal.

He will spend the next 30 days at home with his parents before finishing the last six months of his hitch in Hawaii.

Ford Attempting To Solve Problems On Assembly Line

DETROIT (AP) — Spokesman for Ford Motor Co. agreed Thursday that the problem of monotony and tedium on the assembly-line are real, and hinted the company is working on a solution.

The United Auto Workers Union had noted its concern over lagging worker job interest Wednesday when it proposed to Ford a new approach to the assembly line. Under the UAW plan, teams of workers would follow a single car through the entire assembly process, performing all the tasks necessary to complete the vehicle.

In hinting at its own solution, Ford spokesman said greater reliance on technology might be a better way to combat worker drudgery than revamping the assembly line.

Gov. William Milliken called the bill a top priority item and said that along with a new law authorizing citizen suits against business and industry, it would give the state a top-notch antipollution program.

The bill, solidly supported also by Milliken's Democratic opponent for the governorship, Sen. Sander Levin of Berkeley, passed the Senate 31-1 and was returned to the House for concurrence in amendments.

Speedy Passage A house bill to regulate the sale and possession of explosives earned speedy 28-0 passage.

The measure, offered by Rep. James Tierney, D-Garden City, would allow a person over 18, not adjudged insane and not convicted of a felony within five years, to obtain a permit to purchase specified explosives.

As approved in the Senate, explosives would include such items as blasting powder, nitroglycerine, dynamite and TNA. Gunpowder, black powder and smokeless powder would not come under provisions of the bill as the senate approved it.

That question faced another test in the House, however, where some members have said they want the powders retained in the bill.

Coffins, Laden With Nerve Gas, Set For 'Burial'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Coffins containing nerve gas, destined for burial at sea next week, are being readied for rail journeys from storage centers in Alabama and Kentucky as the Army advances with plans for the controversial disposal operation.

The Army also arranged for newsmen to witness loading operations today at depots in Anniston, Ala., and Richmond, Ky. The loading is expected to take several days. The slow trip by train then will begin next week.

The first of the 3,000 ton of nerve gas rockets in steel and concrete coffins was lifted onto rail cars at the Alabama facility Wednesday, with loading to start today at the Kentucky depot.

The train journey for the 418 coffins next week will end at Sunny Point, N.C. The gas will be put aboard a ship which will be towed some 280 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla., and sunk in 16,000 feet of water to the floor of the Atlantic Ocean.

The casings containing the gas and rocket propellants are expected to begin deteriorating soon after reaching the ocean floor, Army spokesmen said.

Brig. Gen. William W. Stone said the Army hopes for quick deterioration of the coffins so the gas will be diluted and any possible harmful effects ended.

Democrats Win, Lose Point Under Ruling By FCC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic National Committee has won a point and lost one under a Federal Communications Commission ruling on sales of air time.

The FCC ruled Thursday that broadcasters cannot arbitrarily refuse to sell political parties air time for fund raising. But it also decided broadcasters may refuse to sell time for comment on public issues.

The ruling also applies to Republicans but they don't have the financial problems currently facing Democrats who sought the decision.

The FCC's action opens the way for the Democrats to use radio and television within the restraint—to solicit contributions that might carve down a $9.3 million deficit.

A National Broadcasting Co. spokesman said he could not comment in detail because he had not read the ruling "but it seems to be consistent with NBC's current practice." Spokesmen for the other two major networks declined immediate comment.

Huron Light Ship In Final Season

PORT HURON (AP) — The "Huron" light ship, last vessel of its kind in Coast Guard service on the Great Lakes, is scheduled to be decommissioned Aug. 20 during ceremonies in Port Huron.

In its place is a lighted horn buoy, installed Thursday, which emits a three-second blast every 30 seconds, 24 hours a day.

The buoy isn't exactly winning the hearts of lakeshore residents though. Authorities say they've been flooded with complaints about the noise since the buoy's installation.

Water Pollution Surveillance Bill Wins Another Round

LANSING (AP) — A pollution surveillance bill, touted as a potential watchdog against further damage of Michigan waters by mercury and other chemicals, won another round in the Michigan Legislature Thursday.

Gov. William Milliken called the bill a top priority item and said that along with a new law authorizing citizen suits against business and industry, it would give the state a top-notch antipollution program.

Solidly Supported
The bill, solidly supported also by Milliken's Democratic opponent for the governorship, Sen. Sander Levin of Berkeley, passed the Senate 31-1 and was returned to the House for concurrence in amendments.

Wary from a hectic primary election week, the Senate nonetheless worked long hours Thursday, meeting from morning through 9 p.m. in an effort to clean the calendar of major issues and get out of Lansing again.

Speedy Passage
A house bill to regulate the sale and possession of explosives earned speedy 28-0 passage.

The measure, offered by Rep. James Tierney, D-Garden City, would allow a person over 18, not adjudged insane and not convicted of a felony within five years, to obtain a permit to purchase specified explosives.

As approved in the Senate, explosives would include such items as blasting powder, nitroglycerine, dynamite and TNA. Gunpowder, black powder and smokeless powder would not come under provisions of the bill as the senate approved it.

That question faced another test in the House, however, where some members have said they want the powders retained in the bill.

Fees Proposed
Along with those reports, the manufacturers would be required annually to pay surveillance fees ranging from $50 to $9,000, depending on the amount and type of materials being discharged.

The Senate amended the bill to call for annual reports from "every person doing business within this state discharging waste products, which appear on a register of critical materials."

That list would be prepared by the State Water Resources Commission, with the advice of any advisory committee of environmental specialists designated by the commission.

The measure, offered by Rep. James Tierney, D-Garden City, would allow a person over 18, not adjudged insane and not convicted of a felony within five years, to obtain a permit to purchase specified explosives.

As approved in the Senate, explosives would include such items as blasting powder, nitroglycerine, dynamite and TNA. Gunpowder, black powder and smokeless powder would not come under provisions of the bill as the senate approved it.

That question faced another test in the House, however, where some members have said they want the powders retained in the bill.

Fees Proposed
Along with those reports, the manufacturers would be required annually to pay surveillance fees ranging from $50 to $9,000, depending on the amount and type of materials being discharged.

The Senate amended the bill to call for annual reports from "every person doing business within this state discharging waste products, which appear on a register of critical materials."

That list would be prepared by the State Water Resources Commission, with the advice of any advisory committee of environmental specialists designated by the commission.

City Will Re-Study Ski Hill Operation

Continued operation of the Danforth ski hill area for skiers rather than turning it over to snowmobilers will be studied by the City of Escanaba in the light of a request received by the Council Thursday night.

Robert "Bud" Kenneally of 1218 N. 16th St. appeared before the Council on behalf of young people who use the ski hill and want to enjoy its facilities next winter.

The Recreation Commission had recommended continued operation of the ski hill last spring; City Manager George Harvey recommended that it be converted to a snowmobiling area; and the Council after discussion referred the topic back to the Recreation Commission for further study and recommendation.

Suggest Ski Club

The City manager said the cost of operating the ski area at the Danforth hills is rising, there is a factor of public liability that must be considered, and that he had suggested that local skiers could visit the Gladstone ski park for their sport.

Kenneally questioned why skiing should be eliminated from the recreation budget, suggested that if money must be saved the city might close one skating rink, and said that many children walk to the Danforth hills who could not get to Gladstone.

Councilman Cecil Chase noted that three areas in the city are already set aside for snowmobiling while those who ski have only one and "maybe we should take another look at it."

Mayor Ronald DeVos suggested that a ski booster club might be formed and the city area leased to the club for $1 a year. The club would become responsible for the hill operation and assume liability.

Matter Of Money

Councilman Robert Bink noted that the Council has become "bad guys" for cutting the library budget and suggested that the Recreation Board also "find the money" if it recommends continued operation of the ski hill by the city.

Councilman Richard Pryal questioned why Gladstone should have a better ski area than Escanaba, whether a private operation might be the answer here, and asked for "some cost figures on development" along with the recommendation.

In other business the Council:

Approved purchase of a new heating plant boiler for the Escanaba Library and accepted the bid of Pearson Supply of $1,757, lowest of three received. Councilman Albin Pearson Jr. abstained in voting.

Well Registration

Approved the purchase of property at 915 1st Ave. N. for $5,000 to be paid from parking meter revenue funds; tabled for further information the proposal to install jet fuel facilities at the city airport; and referred to the Planning Commission a request of the State of Michigan to vacate an alley between S. 3rd and 4th Sts., from Ludington to 1st Ave. S., and consideration of an offer to have the city purchase property at 700-10 1st Ave. N.

Adopted a proclamation in support of DAV Poppy Days; approved assessments for paving 10th Ave. N.; and adopted an ordinance providing for the registration of wells and well points within the city.

Tabled a proposed ordinance to provide for parking meter stickers for commercial vehicles; and adopted an ordinance on vacating a portion of N. 25th St. in the Red Owl-Gamble shopping center development.

Hair Analyst Disputes Data In Collins' Case

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A defense expert on hair analysis today disputed the basic scientific data on which the state is basing its efforts to convict John Newman Collins of murder.

Dr. Auskley K. Perkins, whom the defense summoned here late Thursday, testified he could not agree with the prosecution's contention that hair from the slain coed's undergarments came from the same source as hair in the basement where the state says she was killed.

Collins, 23, is charged with killing 18-year-old Karen Sue Beneman, an Eastern Michigan University coed from Grand Rapids. The girl's body was found July 26, 1969—three days after her disappearance.

The prosecution contends the girl was killed at the home of State Police Sgt. David Leik, Collins' uncle.

Three prosecution witnesses testified the hairs from the panties and from the basement came from the same source. Leik and his three sons regularly have their hair cut in the cellar.

But Dr. Perkins testified today that the chemical elements in the hairs as recorded by radioactive testing method have too little in common for them to be matched.

He said that six of eight chemical elements found in the hair sample from the panties do not match their counterparts in the hair from the basement. The eight chemical elements were identified in the hairs during neutron activation analysis.

Dr. Perkins also contended that there was too little data to form a solid scientific conclusion about the source of the hairs.

The inventor of the hair test, Dr. Robert Jervis, is scheduled to testify for the defense later today.

The defense presented five witnesses Thursday in an effort to establish alibis for Collins on the day the coed disappeared.

Paul Begovac Dies Suddenly

TRENTON — Paul P. Begovac, 75, a retired woodworker, died suddenly Wednesday evening at his home. He was born Jan. 10, 1894 in Yugoslavia and had resided in Trenton for the past 55 years.

Mr. Begovac was a member of St. Rita's Catholic Church, Trenton, a past member of the Trenton Lions Club and a member of the Croatian Fraternal Union of America.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Sam (Rosalee) Phillips of Garden City, Mich. and Mrs. Charles (Mary) Brandt of Taylor, Mich.; two sons, Joseph of Trenton and Paul of Phoenix, Ariz.; 17 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Friends may call at the Bowlerman-Hallifax Funeral Home in Munising after 3 p.m. Sunday and the parish rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Rita's Church, Trenton, with the Rev. John Ryan officiating and burial will be in the Limestone Cemetery.

Island Residents Minus Officials After Election

BOIS BLANC ISLAND (AP) — Although more than one-third of tiny Bois Blanc Island's registered voters went to the polls this week, nobody got elected.

In fact, nobody had filed for any of the five vacant township offices so there were no names on the ballot.

Twenty of the island's 35 registered voters turned out for election day and wrote in the names of several residents.

However, nobody polled the necessary 10 votes to get his name on the general election ballot, according to Mackinac County Clerk William Quance.

There apparently will be another write-in election in November, Quance said.

The vacant township offices are clerk, treasurer, supervisor, trustee and constable.

Rock Festival Gets Court OK

TORONTO (AP) — An Ontario Supreme Court justice refused Thursday to ban a weekend rock festival. He ruled the government failed to show a strong case that there would be "mischievous" at the gathering.

Justice D. A. Keith's ruling opened the gates for the three-day event to get underway today at Moopart Park, 40 miles east of here.

But even before Keith issued his decision, hundreds of rock music fans from the United States had camped on the festival grounds for what sponsors had advertised as "three days of love, sun and sound."

Officials said 1,000 young people spent the night there Wednesday night—the vanguard of a crowd that is expected to swell to 35,000.

Keith acted on a request for an injunction from the province attorney-general's office which sought to block the rock music portion of the festival, which also includes a motorcycle race.

Festival promoters dropped a request for a counterinjunction to bar provincial police from harassing or intimidating young people who attend.

John Rose, vice president of the Quebec-based Les Productions sportives Ville-Marie Inc., said the music would be provided by Toronto groups—Luke and the Apostles, King Biscuit Boy and the Crowbar and Leigh Ashford.

Festival promotions in the United States had billed Strawberry Fields as a major rock festival headlined by top acts such as Procol Harum, Delaney and Bonnie and Friends and Grand Funk Railroad.

Claude Sheppard of Montreal, lawyer for the organizers, said Les Productions sportives was not responsible for the U.S. advertising.

Go-Go Dancer To Stand Trial

IRON MOUNTAIN — A 17-year-old go-go dancer was bound over to circuit court on a reduced charge in connection with an alleged knifing at a local restaurant, following the conclusion of a preliminary examination in district court Thursday.

Judge V. Robert Payant ordered Gwendolyn Burston of Minneapolis bound over to circuit court for the November term on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, less than murder. Miss Burston had been charged with assault with intent to commit murder in connection with the alleged stabbing of Dale Danielson, 32, of Loretto at the Melody Cafe in the early morning hours of July 21.

Bond of $1,500 was continued. The defendant was released on bond last week and was present for the conclusion of the preliminary hearing this morning.

The only witness taking the stand today was Danielson. He was the final witness called by Prosecutor Francis Brouillette. The defense did not call any witnesses.

Mrs. Irish is president of the American Association of University Women. Miss Lindsey, a sophomore at Central Michigan University, was a runner-up in the recent Miss Michigan Pageant.

Sen. Gore Faces Toughest Battle In Fall Election

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Sen. Albert Gore, an anti-Vietnam war Democrat, faces the toughest fight of his long political life against Rep. William Brock, a pro-Nixon Republican, in the Nov. 3 general election.

Gore, who calls himself the No. 1 White House target of the off-year elections, won renomination handily over four opponents in Thursday's Democratic primary.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew already has promised to campaign for Brock who defeated cowboy singer Tex Ritter and J.D. Boles, a perennial candidate, for the GOP nomination.

Dr. Cecil Pittard of Knoxville was unopposed for the American party nomination.

Sam Mills reported to city police on Thursday that his shop on N. 21st St. was broken into and socket wrenches valued at $50 are missing.

Gas Disposal

Next week, the U. S. Army is scheduled to dump 2,675 tons of World War II nerve gas into the Atlantic Ocean off the eastern coast of Florida — a move which has Florida Gov. Claude Kirk and several Congressmen extremely upset. The gas will be loaded on trains at arsenals at Anniston, Ala., and Lexington, Ky., and the trains will cross through parts of Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia en route to a shiploading point near Wilmington, N. C. — a move that hasn't exactly been greeted with joy, either.

The Army says it would take a nuclear blast to break open the coffins in attempting to reassure the people along the route of the trains that no dangers exist. But in the second breath the Army says that the trains will move at a slow speed to avoid any possibility of an accident and will avoid Atlanta, a major population center.

The last two statements are hardly comforting and support Florida Congressman Paul Rogers when he contends "the entire part of the shipment, along the train route and then down the east coast via ship allows the potential of disaster..." he said.

Indeed, if it would take a nuclear blast to break open the coffins — and the nation must trust that the Army isn't going to carry nuclear warheads on the same train — and there is no danger from moving the gas, then why the speed restrictions and carefully planned route to avoid the population centers?

Notwithstanding the potential dangers of moving the gas, the wisdom of dumping the gas into the Atlantic Ocean seems highly questionable, particularly in view of the world's great concern over environmental pollution. Gov. Kirk said he hadn't been briefed on the Army's plans for the gas, but he doesn't believe "any briefing in the world will convince me that the gas should be dumped off our coast and if I have anything to do with it, it won't be."

There seems to be a classic contradiction in U. S. policy when it calls for restraints on pollution on one hand while the other hand plans to dump 2,675 tons of dangerous gas into the ocean. At the point some 282 miles east of Camp Kennedy where the dump is scheduled to be made the ocean may be thousands of feet deep.

Maybe the hazards of dumping gas into the sea are zero. Maybe there isn't any problem in moving the gas by train. But perhaps a problem could develop and if Army chemists can manufacture the gas, then perhaps they should be able to neutralize it or dispose of it without danger to the population.

Dumping of garbage — whether the kitchen variety or from industry — indiscriminately is illegal in the United States. That should apply to the Army, too.

Boosting Unemployment

With the rise in unemployment, now seems to be a most inappropriate time to campaign for another hike in the minimum wage, yet there is increasing pressure to raise it from the current $1.60 to $2 or even $2.50.

The idea of a minimum wage sounds good but, like many pleasant-sounding social-economic theories, it produces unforeseen and bad results. Minimum wage laws are supposed to raise people's standard of living. Just pass a law and everybody automatically will earn more money.

Contrary to the myth, however, management doesn't have an endless supply of money for ever higher wages. A company must make more money to pay higher salaries, something minimum wage advocates don't seem to consider. The fact is that inflation and taxes have cut into earnings so far that even the giants of industry are feeling the squeeze, to say nothing of the little fellow who may have only a handful of employees. The result is the current rise in unemployment which a higher minimum wage only can accelerate.

According to statistics from the U. S. Department of Labor, increases in the minimum wage almost always are accompanied by a parallel hike in unemployment. The hardest hit are those who need jobs the most, the young and unskilled, a large number of whom are Negroes. When the minimum wage rose from $1.15 to $1.25, for example, Negro teen-age unemployment jumped from about 21 per cent to 26 per cent almost overnight.

The reason is simple. When wages are forced too high by fiat, a businessman must lay off employees who are not worth the new pay level. He either does without or automates.

It is true that some people do benefit from minimum wage laws, usually those who are earning around the level of the new increase. They may get a pay hike which, of course, is no consolation to the man who loses his job.

The man with a low-paying job at least has a chance to learn new skills which can help boost his wages. He might never get that chance if minimum wage laws make him too expensive to hire.

Right-To-Workers Win, Lose Battles

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

You lose one, you win one. The National Right-to-Work Committee took a licking in California the other day when some 75 per cent of the table grape growers, bowing to the pressure of the big chain stores that had grown tired of being picketed for three or four years by "union" men who included a fair number of hippie types, finally capitulated to Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers Organizing Committee and signed compulsory union shop contracts.

But the Right-to-Work boys won big in Congress when House and Senate conferees agreed to drop the union shop provision from the postal reform legislation and will transfer the mail authority to an independent government agency with a non-Cabinet postmaster general.

The capitulation of the grape growers amounts to selling their own employees down the river, for the workers in the San Joaquin valley had refused to give Chavez a majority through five years of argumentation. It was the eastern, urban United States that did the grape pickers in. Unable to win in the vineyards by legitimate persuasion, Chavez turned to the supermarkets of the big cities.

There happens to be a stereotype of the migrant worker; numerous investigatory committees have spread the word about the disease and exploitation which are the normal lot of the migratory field hand.

Undoubtedly the stereotype contains its large elements of truth. But the point about the grape pickers of the Delano table grape area of the San Joaquin valley is that they are not migrants. Most of them have year-round jobs in the vineyards, and have been making good money in good circumstances.

The patrons of the big eastern supermarkets couldn't know this, nor could the well-meaning but deplorably innocent members of the clergy who have the stay-at-home Delano grape pickers and the wandering field hands of the eastern seaboard states and Michigan all mixed up in their minds.

The Right-to-Work Committee, which is run by a scrambling scrapper named Reed Larson who gets much of his support from union men who want to belong to unions of their own free will, worked hard for the grape pickers and their employers up to a year ago.

But Cesar Chavez won the battle of the glossy magazines. The growers, some of whom were losing their margins of profit because of the boycott of the chain stores, eventually ditched the Right-to-Work Committee and went to pragmatic public relations people for advice. They were told to forget their principles and to sign.

Is this the end of the story? No, for the National Right-to-Work Committee has just spun off something called the National Right-to-Work Legal Defense Foundation. This is modeled on the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's Legal Defense and Education Foundation, which has 500 civil rights suits in the courts at the moment, including 27 cases before the Supreme Court.

LONDON (P)—Members of the Henry VI Society and other Roman Catholic bodies honored King Henry VI in the Tower of London where he was murdered in 1461. They placed yellow roses at the spot where he was slain in the Wakefield tower and read poems. More people got more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Contract Bridge

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump and North leads the four of spades. South wins with the king and returns the seven, which you cover with the ten. North takes the queen and shifts to the jack of hearts. How would you play the hand to insure the contract against any distribution of the North-South cards?

2. You are declarer with the West hand at an ambitious contract of Seven Hearts and North leads the queen of spades. Assuming the trumps are divided 2-2, how would you play the hand?

♠ A10 ♠ 9768
♥ AQ1074 ♠ KJ98
♦ AKJ103 ♠ 72
♣ A ♠ Q108

1. The only way you can be 100 per cent sure of the contract is to cover North's jack of hearts with dummy's king and your ace! Now lead the jack of spades to force out the ace, the effect of which is that you establish two spade tricks in your hand.

Let's assume North makes the neutral return of a club. Win with the queen and lead a low heart to your eight. As a result you score two spades, two hearts, two diamonds and three clubs to assure nine tricks.

If you adopt any other line of play, you may make the contract but you cannot be sure of it. The extraordinary play of the K-A of hearts at trick three removes every possible doubt about the outcome, but if you simply can't bear the thought of expending your riches in the proposed manner, you will have to suffer the anguish of trying to make the contract in some other way that is less than 100 per cent certain.

2. Take the ace of spades, cash the A-K of hearts, and lead a diamond from dummy, finessing the nine. If it wins, enter dummy with a trump and repeat the finesse. If the diamonds are divided 3-3 or 4-2, you make the contract by discarding three spades from dummy and ruffing the ten of spades.

It would be wrong to cash the A-K of diamonds, planning to ruff a diamond in dummy. If the queen did not fall on the A-K, it would become impossible to avoid a spade loser.

Cashing the A-K of diamonds wins only when the queen falls on the first or second round; finessing at once for the queen offers a far greater chance of success. Note that it would be wrong to cash the ace and then finesse the nine, since this would prove extremely costly if South had four to the queen.

Double Talk Sounds Bad, But Essential

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The class in double talk is now in session.

You remember, students, what double talk is: the saying of one thing when you are actually thinking just the opposite.

This may sound like hypocrisy, and of course it is. But double talk is essential in any civilization. Without it language would disintegrate into grunts and sign talk.

For the benefit of newcomers here are a few examples of double talk—in each case the spoken remark is followed by what the speaker really thought:

"I certainly enjoyed your lecture, professor."—I haven't slept better in any other class I've had this week.

"I regard golf as a mere game, not a religion. I can take it or leave it alone."—But if I left it alone I'd have to spend more time in the office, and who wants that?

"I wouldn't mind paying the higher prices if a person could be sure he was still getting the same value."—Even if the value was doubled I'd still hate to pay a penny more.

"You men, with your silly vanity about your male prerogatives, you amuse me."—I hate you all, you muscle-brained slobs!

"Whatever you decide to do about it, I know you'll be utterly fair."—I'd be utterly crazy if I really believed that.

"When you realize that I want you to hold this in the strictest confidence."—If I hadn't wanted it blabbed all over town, wouldn't have told it to you, big mouth.

"Naturally, there are two sides to every question."—And you always manage to pick the wrong side, don't you, dummy?

"This job calls for someone with vision, tact, boldness, originality, and a really creative imagination."—He also must be able to put a stencil in the mu-

Wandering Herbert Not All Too Blame

Dear Ann Landers: Herbert considers himself a good husband. I'll let you decide. He hands over his paycheck and doesn't say too much unless I overspend, which I rarely do.

He works hard and I know it. When he comes home at night he eats (with the newspaper propped in front of him), then goes straight to bed after supper. This goes on all week. Sunday comes along and Herbert needs "a day to himself."

This means going to his father's house and drinking beer until he gets so stiff he can't see to drive home. I have to go get him. When I complain he says he must spend as much time as he can with his father because the old man won't be around forever. (The "old man" is 54).

My question is this: How can I get Herbert to let me in on his activities?—Married Widow

Dear Married: What activities do you want to be let in on? Drinking beer with his father?

I suggest you use your imagination, Toots, and come up with something the two of you can do — unrelated to his family. If you invited another couple or two to dinner at your home, Herbert would stay up, wouldn't he? There must be some community activities you can enjoy together. Ever hear of ball games, concerts, movies, bowling, golf, fishing, picnicking, bicycling — the list is endless. Get with it, girl. Herbert's father might be with him a lot longer than you if you don't pump some life into that dull, dull marriage.

Dear Ann Landers: I have read your column for years and your concepts of morality and sexual behavior seem to be getting more antiquated and out-of-date every time I pick up the paper.

Please state the quality of your credentials. What gives you the right to impose your medieval code of morality on millions of people? Who gave you a license to inject your creaking views on everybody who happens to read? You show up just about everywhere the English language is spoken. What in your background gives you the right to push your views on people? Who appointed you guardian of the world's morals? — Morris, Minnesota

Dear Morris: I wasn't aware that "background" and "credentials" gave anyone the right to push his views on people.

I have been neither appointed nor appointed. I express my opinions on a variety of subjects when I am asked to do so. Many of the answers that appear in the column are the end product of consultations with the best brains in the country. I am aware of the awesome responsibility of giving advice and I do my best to be fair, direct and correct. When I find I have erred, I admit it. Do you?

Dear Ann: Some folks we know who are a lot richer than we are had a reception to celebrate the 40th wedding anniversary of their parents. They served only soft drinks and fruit punch. There were a few bowls of potato chips and nuts on the table. Also some dried-out sandwiches and cookies. It wasn't worth getting dressed up for. Am I wrong to be — Disappointed?

Dear Disappointed: Did you go to offer your congratulations and best wishes or to get bombed and fill your stomach? Obviously the latter, or you wouldn't have been "Disappointed."

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of your newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

The National Right-to-Work

HONORED KING

LONDON (P)—Members of the Henry VI Society and other Roman Catholic bodies honored King Henry VI in the Tower of London where he was murdered in 1461. They placed yellow roses at the spot where he was slain in the Wakefield tower and read poems. The King was awarded the Golden Rose in 1446 by Pope Eugenius for great devotion to him and the Holy Roman Church.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

Legal Defense Foundation considers that a worker who is fired by an employer because he has scruples about being forced to join a union has suffered the deprivation of a civil right. Some of the Delano grape pickers have already turned to the Right-to-Work Foundation lawyers for help. They say they have been victimized by "black-mail picketing."

Secondary boycotts of retailers to force workers into unions are not permitted when industrial products are involved. But the same rules don't hold for agricultural products such as table grapes.

Said California's Governor Ronald Reagan of Chavez's victory, "It is tragic that the workers who are most affected by this have no choice in determining whether or not they want to join the union."

It was a happier story when the House of Representatives cut the compulsory union feature out of the postal reform bill. Since the members of the House know what the people want, maybe Right-to-Work has more of a future than Cesar Chavez supposes.

At any rate, Reed Larson and his committee propose to continue their crusade.

Double Talk Sounds Bad, But Essential

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The class in double talk is now in session.

You remember, students, what double talk is: the saying of one thing when you are actually thinking just the opposite.

This may sound like hypocrisy, and of course it is. But double talk is essential in any civilization. Without it language would disintegrate into grunt-and-sign talk.

For the benefit of newcomers here are a few examples of double talk—in each case the spoken remark is followed by what the speaker really thought:

"I certainly enjoyed your lecture, professor."—"I haven't slept better in any other class I've had this week."

"I regard golf as a mere game, not a religion. I can take it or leave it alone."—"But if I left it alone I'd have to spend more time in the office, and who wants that?"

"I wouldn't mind paying the higher prices if a person could be sure he was still getting the same value."—"Even if the value was doubled I'd still hate to pay a penny more."

"You men, with your silly vanity about your male prerogatives, you amuse me."—"I hate you all, you muscle-brained slobs!"

"Whatever you decide to do about it, I know you'll be utterly fair."—"I'd be utterly crazy if I really believed that."

"When you realize that I want you to hold this in the strictest confidence."—"If I hadn't wanted it blabbed all over town, wouldn't I have told it to you, big mouth."

"Naturally, there are two sides to every question."—"And you always manage to pick the wrong side, don't you, dummy?"

"This job calls for someone with vision, tact, boldness, originality, and a really creative imagination."—"He also must be able to put a stencil in the mi-

Contract Bridge

By B. JAY BECKER

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump and North leads the four of spades. South wins with the king and returns the seven, which you cover with the ten. North takes the queen and shifts to the jack of hearts. How would you play the hand to insure the contract against any distribution of the North-South cards?

♠ J10953 ♠ 62
♥ A108 ♥ K95
♦ 7 ♦ AKJ103

2. You are declarer with the West hand at an ambitious contract of Seven Hearts and North leads the queen of spades. Assuming the trumps are divided 2-2, how would you play the hand?

♠ A10 ♠ 9763
♥ AQ1074 ♥ KJ98
♦ AKJ109 ♦ 72
♣ A ♣ Q105

1. The only way you can be 100 per cent sure of the contract is to cover North's jack of hearts with dummy's king and your ace! Now lead the jack of spades to force out the ace, the effect of which is that you establish two spade tricks in your hand.

Let's assume North makes the neutral return of a club. Win with the queen and lead a low heart to your eight. As a result you score two spades, two hearts, two diamonds and three clubs to assure nine tricks.

If you adopt any other line of play, you may make the contract but you cannot be sure of it. The extraordinary play of the K-A of hearts at trick three removes every possible doubt about the outcome, but if you simply can't bear the thought of expending your riches in the proposed manner, you will have to suffer the anguish of trying to make the contract in some other way that is less than 100 per cent certain.

2. Take the ace of spades, cash the A-K of hearts, and lead a diamond from dummy, the finessing the nine. If it wins, enter dummy with a trump and repeat the finesse. If the diamonds are divided 3-3 or 4-2, you make the contract by discarding three spades from dummy and ruffing the ten of spades.

It would be wrong to cash the A-K of diamonds, planning to ruff a diamond in dummy. If the queen did not fall on the A-K, it would become impossible to avoid a spade loser.

Cashing the A-K of diamonds wins only when the queen falls on the first or second round; finessing at once for the queen offers a far greater chance of success. Note that it would be wrong to cash the ace and then finesse the nine, since this would prove extremely costly if South had four to the queen.

Wandering Herbert Not All Too Blame

Dear Ann Landers: Herbert considers himself a good husband. I'll let you decide. He hands over his paycheck and doesn't say too much unless I overspend, which I rarely do.

He works hard and I know it. When he comes home at night he eats (with the newspaper propped in front of him), then goes straight to bed after supper. This goes on all week. Sunday comes along and Herbert needs "a day to himself." This means going to his father's house and drinking beer until he gets so stiff he can't see to drive home. I have to go get him. When I complain he says he must spend as much time as he can with his father because the old man won't be around forever. (The "old man" is 54).

My question is this: How can I get Herbert to let me in on his activities?—Married Widow

Dear Married: What activities do you want to be let in on? Drinking beer with his father?

I suggest you use your imagination, Toots, and come up with something the two of you can do — unrelated to his family. If you invited another couple or two to dinner at your home, Herbert would stay up, wouldn't he? There must be some community activities you can enjoy together. Ever hear of ball games, concerts, movies, bowling, golf, fishing, picnicking, bicycling — the list is endless. Get with it, girl. Herbert's father might be with him a lot longer than you if you don't pump some life into that dull, dull marriage.

Dear Ann Landers: I have read your column for years and your concepts of morality and sexual behavior seem to be getting more antiquated and out-of-date every time I pick up the paper.

Please state the quality of your credentials. What gives you the right to impose your medieval code of morality on millions of people? Who gave you a license to inject your creaking views on everybody who happens to read? You show up just about everywhere the English language is spoken. What in your background gives you the right to push your views on people? Who appointed you guardian of the world's morals? — Morris, Minnesota

Dear Morris: I wasn't aware that "background" and "credentials" gave anyone the right to push his views on people.

I have been neither appointed nor appointed. I express my opinions on a variety of subjects when I am asked to do so. Many of the answers that appear in the column are the end product of consultations with the best brains in the country. I am aware of the awesome responsibility of giving advice and I do my best to be fair, direct and correct. When I find I have erred, I admit it. Do you?

Dear Ann: Some folks we know who are a lot richer than we are had a reception to celebrate the 40th wedding anniversary of their parents. They served only soft drinks and fruit punch. There were a few bowls of potato chips and nuts on the table. Also some dried-out sandwiches and cookies. It wasn't worth getting dressed up for. Am I wrong to be — Disappointed?

Dear Disappointed: Did you go to offer your congratulations and best wishes or to get bombed and fill your stomach? Obviously the latter, or you wouldn't have been "Disappointed."

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, answers some of the most frequently asked questions about weddings. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of your newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 35 cents in coin.

Up to date, the record crowd attending a ball game at Gladstone was present when Escanaba and Gladstone played but this record is expected to be broken when Manistique comes back for another game. Not only is Manistique sore but it is willing to bet regular circulating medium that it can trim the local aggregation.

Dear Heloise:

When I need more skirt hangers I use those plastic tabs found on some loaves of bread and other bakery products.

Take any ordinary hanger and two of those little plastic tabs—twist the tabs on the skirt and hanger at the waistline, thus securing the skirt to the hanger. It will hang real nice and neat and will not fall off.

Mrs. Jack Dowler

Dear Heloise:

We live in an apartment and have a rather small balcony. It will hold two lawn chairs and a patio table nineteen inches in diameter.

I was never able to keep a tablecloth on the table until I discovered this little trick.

I took a regular-sized bath towel (they make so many pretty ones) and cut it in half, rounded the corners, and then sewed elastic all around the two pieces.

Now I have two of the cutest tablecloths for my patio table and it took me all of ten minutes to make them.

They are very absorbent. I just throw them in the wash with the other towels and don't even have to iron them.

Carol Cleary

Letter Of Thought

Dear Heloise:

For tired brains, sit comfortably on a chair with arms loose at your sides and imagine you are a white cloud floating in the blue sky.

J. E. Pera

Dear Heloise:

My husband likes mustard on his sandwiches. I like catsup—he likes onions and relish—I like pickles and olives—and so the story goes.

So on fishing trips or picnics, I wrap all the sandwiches in aluminum foil. Mine with the shiny side out. His with the dull side out.

This eliminates opening and peeking to see who gets what!

Dear Heloise:

When I need more skirt hangers I use those plastic tabs found on some loaves of bread and other bakery products.

Take any ordinary hanger and two of those little plastic tabs—twist the tabs on the skirt and hanger at the waistline, thus securing the skirt to the hanger. It will hang real nice and neat and will not fall off.

Mrs. Jack Dowler

Dear Heloise:

We live in an apartment and have a rather small balcony. It will hold two lawn chairs and a patio table nineteen inches in diameter.

I was never able to keep a tablecloth on the table until I discovered this little trick.

I took a regular-sized bath towel (they make so many pretty ones) and cut it in half, rounded the corners, and then sewed elastic all around the two pieces.

Now I have two of the cutest tablecloths for my patio table and it took me all of ten minutes to make them.

They are very absorbent. I just throw them in the wash with the other towels and don't even have to iron them.

Letter Of Thought

Dear Heloise:
For tired brains, sit comfortably on a chair with arms loose at your sides and imagine you are a white cloud floating in the blue sky.

J. E. Pera

Dear Heloise:

My husband likes mustard on his sandwiches. I like catsup—he likes onions and relish—I like pickles and olives—and so the story goes.

So on fishing trips or picnics, I wrap all the sandwiches in aluminum foil. Mine with the shiny side out. His with the dull side out.

This eliminates opening and pecking to see who gets what! Laura Roof

Rudyard Kipling's Sons In U.P. To Be Cited

By E. J. SUNDSTROM

Sault Evening News

RUDYARD — When the end of a year rolls around, residents of many small communities start making plans for celebrating the arrival of the New Year.

But not so this community of 500 residents in the eastern U.P. They're going to celebrate the 105th birthday of their namesake, Rudyard Kipling, one of England's most famous poets.

"A lot of Rudyard people know their town is named after a famous man, but many of our neighbors are unaware of the fact and that Kipling himself once wrote a poem about the two towns in the Upper Peninsula which were named after him," says Tom Spencer, president of the Rudyard Lions Club.

To Sponsor Night
So Spencer and some of his committee chairmen are planning to sponsor a Rudyard Kipling Night sometime during the year-end holiday to commemorate his birthday. Kipling was born on Dec. 30, 1865 in Bombay, India.

The towns of Rudyard and Kipling, important stations on the then newly-built Soo Line Railroad, were named after the author in 1890 by Fred D. Underwood, general manager of the line at that time. Kipling wasn't aware of the fact until about 1896, when apparently Mr. Underwood wrote and told him.

In reply Kipling sent Underwood a photograph of himself and on the reverse side penned the following poem:

"Wise is the child who knows his sire,
The ancient proverb ran,
But wiser far the man who knows,
Where and when his offspring grows,
For who, the mischief, would suppose
I've sons in Michigan???"

Yet I am saved from midnight ills,
That warp the soul of man,
They do not make me walk the floor,
Nor hammer at the doctor's door;
They deal in wheat and iron ore,
My sons in Michigan.

O, tourist in the Pullman car
(By Cook's or Raymond's Plan),
Forgive a parent's partial view;
But maybe you have children too—
So let me introduce to you
My sons in Michigan"

Kipling was not the only Englishman honored by Underwood and his associates. It seems that in the company's early days it ran out of financing and finally got some British backing. So other towns along the Soo Line (Minnesota, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie) were given names of English derivation.

Gladstone Named
One of these was the City of Gladstone, just west of Kipling, named after William Gladstone, prime minister of Great Britain on a number of occasions in the 1890's. Gladstone also gave his name to a hand satchel which became known as the Gladstone bag.

Today Gladstone, on Little Bay de Noc, near Escanaba, is still a division point on the Soo Line and the railroad station is still busy, but not as busy as it was then. Kipling, once an important iron and wood shipping point, is almost completely integrated with Gladstone and the only sign indicating its past is a small highway sign which says: "Kipling, Reduce Speed". Today only waterfront oil terminals indicate it was a shipping port.

Rudyard is the most active of Kipling's two sons. It is a major shopping center for residents of Kitcheloo Air Force Base and is one of the biggest hay shipping points in the nation. Most of its hay today, though, goes to the nation's race tracks. A few decades back it fed most of the horses in Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit.

Pram Sailing Races Planned For Saturday

Boys and girls, who have been receiving instructions in pram sailing, will compete in the first races of the season on Saturday at the pram site near the Gladstone Yacht Club. Girls, ages 13 to 17, will race in one class from 10 to 12. Boys, ages 9 to 12, will race from 1 to 4 p.m.

First place winners will receive trophies and second and third place will receive ribbons.

Barbara Marshall is the sailing instructor and over 130 boys and girls are participating.

The popular sailing program was re-activated this year after a lapse of several years. Eleven of the small fiberglass boats were purchased through donations from the following: City of Gladstone, Gladstone Yacht Club, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Community Schools, First National and Gladstone State Savings Banks, Dr. Dehlin, Olson, and Maniaci, Chamber of Commerce, Cleave Krout, Sr., Pioneer 4-H Club, Dr. O. S. Hult, Eaton, Yale and Towne, Inc., August Mattson Post American Legion, Hupy Insurance Co., Ray Norton, Empson Insurance Co. and Gladstone Marine.

A floating dock 8x24' was installed and a building for storage of prams and equipment was provided at the site.

Volunteer labor for this project was provided by Carlton Lee Mineau, Pat Mineau, Gordon Marshall, Howard Keeton, Phil Gagnon, Bob Richards, Don Pfothenauer, and Ray Norton.

Few Changes Foreseen In State Fishing Rules

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's 1971 general fishing regulations will mostly stay the same as this year under a list of proposals coming up for action by the Natural Resources Commission at its meeting next Thursday and Friday at Marquette.

The only major changes will affect waters set aside for special fish management. Under that heading come 80 lakes and ponds designated as trout lakes.

Those placed on the list for 1971 will have their season restricted to the regular trout season.

Fish experts are recommending that 36 lakes be dropped from the list to allow more recreational fishing. They are suggesting that six be added—Edey and Norway Lakes in Dickinson County, Camp Lake in Iron County, Long and Wolverine Lakes in Luce County and Clear Lake in Schoolcraft County.

To Renew Regulations
The fisheries division is suggesting a three-year renewal of current hook and line regulations for trout and salmon in Michigan Great Lakes and connecting waters.

DNR Approves Salmon Harvest By Packing Firm

LANSING (AP) — The State Department of Natural Resources reports it has signed a contract authorizing Blackport Packing Co. of Grand Rapids to harvest an estimated 3 million pounds of surplus salmon from Lake Michigan streams this fall.

The contract calls for the Grand Rapids firm to handle and process approximately 50,000 Coho and Chinook salmon for free distribution to Michigan's licensed fishermen.

Last year, some 32,000 salmon were handed out under the plan.

The surplus salmon will be harvested at three weirs operated by the department on the Platte and Little Manistee rivers.

Terms of the contract call for the Grand Rapids company to make "reasonable" quantities of salmon available to qualified buyers in Michigan at a fair market price if the fish meet state and federal food regulations.

The department said the unit price the company will pay the state for the salmon remains open for negotiation pending a determination of the market for the fish.

Proclamation

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed next Sunday as Miss Black Michigan Day. The state winner will go to the Miss Black America Contest in New York Aug. 28. The governor also proclaimed October as Audubon Month to salute the National Audubon Society, a conservation group.

These provide for a 10-inch size limit and a daily creel quota of five trout and salmon, singly or combined.

The commission also will hear a proposal for a general ban on winter spearing of fish in inland waters, starting with the 1972 season.

The measure is being brought up early so public reaction can be gauged before it becomes effective.

Other fishing recommendations awaiting commission action call for:

—Suspending northern pike fishing in Big Star Lake, Lake County, during December, January, and February.

—Establishing a year-around fishing ban on Haven Hill Lake, Oakland County, in line with recent opening efforts to develop this body of water as a dependable producer of muskellunge eggs for a new warm-water fish hatchery.

Muskie Move
—Prohibiting all fishing on Iron Lake, Iron County, from Nov. 1 through May 15. The proposed measure is designed to protect the lake as one of the two major sources of muskellunge eggs in the Upper Peninsula. DN believes winter fishing has played a role in reducing the lake's muskie population.

—Banning the use and possession of spears during January and February in Breckett Lake, Mackinac County; Caribou Lake, Chippewa County; Dean Lake, Kent County; Kake Lake, Luce County; Whitmore Lake, Livingston and Washtenaw counties; and Wiggins Lake, Gladwin County.

—Allowing the expiration of an order which has restricted fishing below the recently removed Newsgay Dam in the Muskegon River.

Draft Situation: If You're Born In Fall, You May Get Early Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's first post-World War II draft lottery was designed to assure that "each man has an equal chance of being selected first, selected second, or not selected at all," Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said last November.

But the final tabulation shows that men born in the last half of the year—and especially those born in November and December—bore a heavier draft burden than individuals whose birthdays fell in the first six calendar months.

The results became known Thursday after it was announced that men in the 1970 draft pool whose draft numbers are 196 or higher probably would escape induction into the armed forces.

The 366 days of the year were ranked in order as pulled from the bowl last Dec. 1. The dates were matched with a registrant's birthday to determine the order of call.

Critics have charged the drawing was biased against the last six months of the year. They said the capsules containing the dates were insufficiently mixed before being drawn from the bowl.

Distributed equally, that would mean that 18 or 17 of the 30 or 31 days in each month (18 or 16 days in February) should correspond to draftable numbers.

10,000 Guardsmen Leaving Grayling

GRAYLING (AP) — Some 10,000 National Guardsmen from Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, completing two weeks of annual field training at Camp Grayling will depart for home Friday night and Saturday.

The guardsmen are members of the 38th Infantry Division with brigades in the three midwestern states.

Michigan's 48th Infantry Brigade, with headquarters in Wyoming, Mich., will return to home stations Saturday.

Training of units of the 48th Brigade were observed by Lt. Gen. William R. Peers, Army chief of reserve components, Thursday.

Motorists moving south from the Camp Grayling area Friday night and Saturday are being cautioned to watch for slower moving military convoys. Departure times for the military units will be on a staggered schedule to minimize traffic congestion.

With the departure of the 38th Division, some 3,800 Ohio National Guardsmen and 300 Army reservists will move into the training site for two weeks.

Bonnie LaPorte Wed To Arthur C. Bower

Bonnie Jean LaPorte and Arthur Charles Bower exchanged wedding vows during an Aug. 1 nuptial mass at the St. Francis de Sales Church. Father Arnold Grambow officiated at the 11 a.m. double-ring ceremony.

The bride wore a street-length white empire styled dress with lace covering acetate and nylon accented by ruffles at the collar and belled lace sleeves. Her chapel-length veil was held by a white bow and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Mrs. Paulette Demers, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and chose a yellow princess style, street-length dress. Her flowers were yellow daisies. The bridegroom's uncle, Joseph DuFour of Beaver Dam, Wis., was best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Parents of the couple are Mrs. Elizabeth LaPorte, 720 Arbutus Ave., and Joseph LaPorte, Manistowic, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Bower, Munising.

The new Mrs. Bower is a 1970 graduate of Manistique High School and is employed by the Pioneer-Tribune. Her husband attended Mather High School in Munising and is serving in the U.S. Navy and stationed at Great Lakes, Ill.

Briefly Told

State police arrested a Grand Rapids youth at 3 p.m. Tuesday who was driving a car reported stolen in Grand Rapids recently. The young man, who was stopped on County Rd. 442, Inwood Township, was referred to Probate Court authorities.

John Laude, Weymouth, Wis., reported to state police that a 26-in. blue and white bicycle was stolen from the Indian Lake State Park either Tuesday or Wednesday.

Forums Set

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken reports more than 50 community forums on problems and needs of the aging will be held throughout Michigan the week of Sept. 20. Leaders of the community forums will be named to a governor's advisory committee for a White House conference on aging to be held in November, 1971.

Radio Station Raps Area Phone Service

Radio Station WTIQ has filed a complaint with the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) relative to "the recent and frequent interruptions in telephone service between Manistique and Escanaba," according to an announcement from David Kelly, owner-manager of the Manistique radio station.

In his letter to Commission chairman Willis F. Ward, Kelly cited the recent long distance service interruptions (the evening of July 7 and into the afternoon of July 8) between the two cities which "completely isolated Manistique from other exchanges or long distance locations."

"The interruption of long distance service also terminates the receipt of Associated Press teletype to WTIQ on which the station receives national, state, weather and sports news. It is our feeling," Kelly continued, "that there should be a back-up service to this community which is isolated from the outside world without this 50 mile telephone link."

"It is also our feeling that any weak link between Escanaba and Manistique should assure reliable service," Kelly said at the conclusion of his complaint letter.

The complaint notes that WTIQ is not taking issue with General Telephone Company, which serves only Manistique proper, but only with Michigan Bell which owns the telephone lines between Manistique-Escanaba. The letter also notes the frequent occasions that residents and businessmen wait for long periods of time before reaching an operator to place long distance calls.

"I intend to pursue this matter until the needs of the community are fulfilled," Kelly said.

Deadline Set For Auxiliary Event Entries

Entries for next Monday's annual Hospital Auxiliary Flower Show and Tea should be at the Indian Lake Golf and Country Club no later than 12:30 since judging will begin at 1 p.m. Mrs. Russell Watson, Mrs. G. Leslie Bouschor and Mrs. Ray Prine will be the judges.

The general public is invited to submit entries with ribbons awarded for wild flowers, weeds, most perfect blossom, bouquets, house plants, garden flowers and combined live and artificial arrangements.

The affair will get underway at 2 p.m. when visitors may view the displays, shop at a craft bazaar table and enjoy either coffee or tea. Mrs. D. R. Gimse is bazaar table chairman and reminds all auxiliary members, and others wishing to contribute, to bring craft items for the sale.

Admission to the show is 50 cents and an attendance prize will be awarded. All proceeds go to support various auxiliary-sponsored hospital projects.

Mrs. William Hood is general chairman with an assist from Mesdames Ralph Ekstrom, Robert Broullire, Donald Schulze, Leo Curran, Alvin Nelson and Arthur Saunders. Mrs. George Wood is tea chairman.

DETROIT (AP)—With model changeover in full swing U.S. auto production declined this week as automakers scheduled 18,083 assemblies, down from 31,420 last week and 22,084 in the comparable period last year.

Bonnie LaPorte Wed To Arthur C. Bower

Bonnie Jean LaPorte and Arthur Charles Bower exchanged wedding vows during an Aug. 1 nuptial mass at the St. Francis de Sales Church. Father Arnold Grambow officiated at the 11 a.m. double-ring ceremony.

The bride wore a street-length white empire styled dress with lace covering acetate and nylon accented by ruffles at the collar and belled lace sleeves. Her chapel-length veil was held by a white bow and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Mrs. Paulette Demers, sister of the bride, was matron of honor and chose a yellow princess style, street-length dress. Her flowers were yellow daisies. The bridegroom's uncle, Joseph DuFour of Beaver Dam, Wis., was bestman.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Elizabeth LaPorte, 720 Arbutus Ave., and Joseph LaPorte, Manitowoc, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur T. Bower, Munising.

The new Mrs. Bower is a 1970 graduate of Manistique High School and is employed by the Pioneer-Tribune. Her husband attended Mather High School in Munising and is serving in the U.S. Navy and stationed at Great Lakes, Ill.

Draft Situation:

If You're Born In Fall, You May Get Early Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's first post-World War II draft lottery was designed to assure that "each man has an equal chance of being selected first, selected second, or not selected at all," Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said last November.

But the final tabulation shows that men born in the last half of the year—and especially those born in November and December—bore a heavier draft burden than individuals whose birthdays fell in the first six calendar months.

The results became known Thursday after it was announced that men in the 1970 draft pool whose draft numbers are 196 or higher probably would escape induction into the armed forces.

The 366 days of the year were ranked in order as pulled from the bowl last Dec. 1. The dates were matched with a registrant's birthday to determine the order of call.

Critics have charged the drawing was biased against the last six months of the year. They said the capsules containing the dates were insufficiently mixed before being drawn from the bowl.

Distributed equally, that would mean that 16 or 17 of the 30 or 31 days in each month (15 or 16 days in February) should correspond to draftable numbers.

A breakdown of the December lottery, however, discloses the drawing assigned numbers below 195 to:

—26 of the 31 days in December.

—22 of the 30 days of November.

—19 of the 30 days in September; 19 of August's 31 days; and 18 of the 31 in July.

Lottery numbers under 195 went to no more than 14 birthdays in any of the first six months, with a low of only 10 vulnerable days in March.

For its second lottery, held last July 1, the Selective Service devised a complex procedure to ensure random mixing at every step.

The results, assigning numbers to men who turn 19 during 1970, have not been challenged.

The second lottery also shows wide variations, but the highs and lows do not appear to cluster in any regular pattern.

There has been no estimate how many men will be drafted in 1971 or how high up the list the draft may reach next year.

But if 195 were taken as the hypothetical ceiling, November would only have 18 low-numbered days and December would have 17.

A breakdown of the remaining months in the second lottery using the 195 cutoff point shows that January would have 24 low-numbered days; February, 12; March, 16; April, 16; May, 19;

Few Changes Foreseen In State Fishing Rules

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's 1971 general fishing regulations will mostly stay the same as this year under a list of proposals coming up for action by the Natural Resources Commission at its meeting next Thursday and Friday at Marquette.

The only major changes will affect waters set aside for special fish management.

Under that heading come 89 lakes and ponds designated as trout lakes.

Those placed on the list for 1971 will have their season restricted to the regular trout season.

Fish experts are recommending that 36 lakes be dropped from the list to allow more recreational fishing.

They are suggesting that six be added—Edey and Norway Lakes in Dickinson County, Camp Lake in Iron County, Long

Rudyard Kipling's Sons In U.P. To Be Cited

By E. J. SUNDSTROM
Sault Evening News
RUDYARD — When the end of a year rolls around, residents of many small communities start making plans for celebrating the arrival of the New Year.

But not so this community of 500 residents in the eastern U.P. They're going to celebrate the 105th birthday of their namesake, Rudyard Kipling, one of England's most famous poets.

"A lot of Rudyard people know their town is named after a famous man, but many of our neighbors are unaware of the fact and that Kipling himself once wrote a poem about the two towns in the Upper Peninsula which were named after him," says Tom Spencer, president of the Rudyard Lions Club.

To Sponsor Night
So Spencer and some of his committee chairmen are planning to sponsor a Rudyard Kipling Night sometime during the year-end holiday to commemorate his birthday. Kipling was born on Dec. 30, 1865 in Bombay, India.

The towns of Rudyard and Kipling, important stations on the then newly-built Soo Line Railroad, were named after the author in 1890 by Fred D. Underwood, general manager of the line at that time. Kipling wasn't aware of the fact until about 1896, when apparently Mr. Underwood wrote and told him.

In reply Kipling sent Underwood a photograph of himself and on the reverse side penned the following poem:

"Wise is the child who knows his sire,
The ancient proverb ran,
But wiser far the man who knows,
Where and when his offspring grows,
For who, the mischief, would suppose
I've sons in Michigan???"

Yet I am saved from midnight ills,
That warp the soul of man,
They do not make me walk the floor,
Nor hammer at the doctor's door;
They deal in wheat and iron ore.
My sons in Michigan.

O, tourist in the Pullman car
(By Cook's or Raymond's Plan),
Forgive a parent's partial view;
But maybe you have children too—
So let me introduce to you
My sons in Michigan"

Index Higher

LANSING (AP)—The index of prices received by Michigan farmers on July 15 was 277 per cent of the 1910-14 average, up one point from the mid-June level and seven points above last year. The State Crop Reporting Service said the increase was mainly due to higher prices for wholesale milk, calves, corn, wheat, oats and soybeans.

To Renew Regulations

The fisheries division is suggesting a three-year renewal of current hook and line regulations for trout and salmon in Michigan Great Lakes and connecting waters.

DNR Approves Salmon Harvest By Packing Firm

LANSING (AP) — The State Department of Natural Resources reports it has signed a contract authorizing Blackport Packing Co. of Grand Rapids to harvest an estimated 3 million pounds of surplus salmon from Lake Michigan streams this fall.

The contract calls for the Grand Rapids firm to handle and process approximately 50,000 Coho and Chinook salmon for free distribution to Michigan's licensed fishermen.

Last year, some 32,000 salmon were handed out under the plan.

The surplus salmon will be harvested at three weirs operated by the department on the Platte and Little Manistee rivers.

Terms of the contract call for the Grand Rapids company to make "reasonable" quantities of salmon available to qualified buyers in Michigan at a fair market price if the fish meet state and federal food regulations.

The department said the unit price the company will pay the state for the salmon remains open for negotiation pending a determination of the market for the fish.

Proclamation

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has proclaimed next Sunday as Miss Black Michigan Day. The state winner will go to the Miss Black America Contest in New York Aug. 28. The governor also proclaimed October as Audubon Month to salute the National Audubon Society, a conservation group.

portant iron and wood shipping point, is almost completely integrated with Gladstone and the only sign indicating its past is a small highway sign which says: "Kipling, Reduce Speed". Today only waterfront oil terminals indicate it was a shipping port.

Rudyard is the most active of Kipling's two sons. It is a major shopping center for residents of Kincheloe Air Force Base and is one of the biggest hay shipping points in the nation. Most of its hay today, though, goes to the nation's race tracks. A few decades back it fed most of the horses in Chicago, Milwaukee and Detroit.

Pram Sailing Races Planned For Saturday

Boys and girls, who have been receiving instructions in pram sailing, will compete in the first races of the season on Saturday at the pram site near the Gladstone Yacht Club. Girls, ages 13 to 17, will race in one class from 10 to 12. Boys, ages 9 to 12, will race from 1 to 4 p.m.

First place winners will receive trophies and second and third place will receive ribbons.

Barbara Marshall is the sailing instructor and over 130 boys and girls are participating.

The popular sailing program was re-activated this year after a lapse of several years. Eleven of the small fiberglass boats were purchased through donations from the following: City of Gladstone, Gladstone Yacht Club, Rotary Club, Lions Club, Community Schools, First National and Gladstone State Savings Banks, Dr. Dehlin, Olson, and Maniaci, Chamber of Commerce, Cleve Krout, Sr., Pioneer 4-H Club, Dr. O. S. Hult, Eaton, Yale and Towne, Inc., August Mattson Post American Legion, Hupy Insurance Co. Ray Norton, Empson Insurance Co. and Gladstone Marine.

A floating dock 8x24' was installed and a building for storage of prams and equipment was provided at the site. Volunteer labor for this project was provided by Carlton Lee Mineau, Pat Mineau, Gordon Marshall, Howard Keeton, Phil Gagnon, Bob Richards, Don Potenhauer, and Ray Norton.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures Writer
One by one, the manufacturers of house paints are adding a comparatively new development to their lines — an exterior latex trim that dries to a gloss.

Just as the advocates of latex and oil paints swear by their choices, so do the supporters of gloss and non-gloss trim finishes. Some home owners who preferred latex or water-based paints for the bodies of their houses wanted glossy surfaces on the outside trim.

As a result, thousands of homes were painted with latex except for the trim, which was covered with a glossy oil paint. Now, thanks to superior acrylic emulsions, quality latex gloss trim is available, and the manufacturers are putting it out in a wide range of colors.

The trim paint has all the advantages of latex paint—quick drying, easy to clean up with soap and water, little odor and no fire hazard. The gloss levels are said to hold well, with good color retention and no yellowing of the whites. The new paint is recommended for use over aged, glossy, surfaces as well as primed bare wood, and can also be used on brick, stucco and other types of masonry.

Since it resists mildew, chipping and discoloration, the paint may be used on outdoor furniture, shutters, panels, doors, railings, fences, dog houses and other surfaces outdoors where a gloss is desired.

The trim paint may be applied under both damp and dry conditions. The "open time" of approximately 10 or 15 minutes, during which working areas can be lapped into just-painted sections, can be further extended by wetting the surfaces before painting.

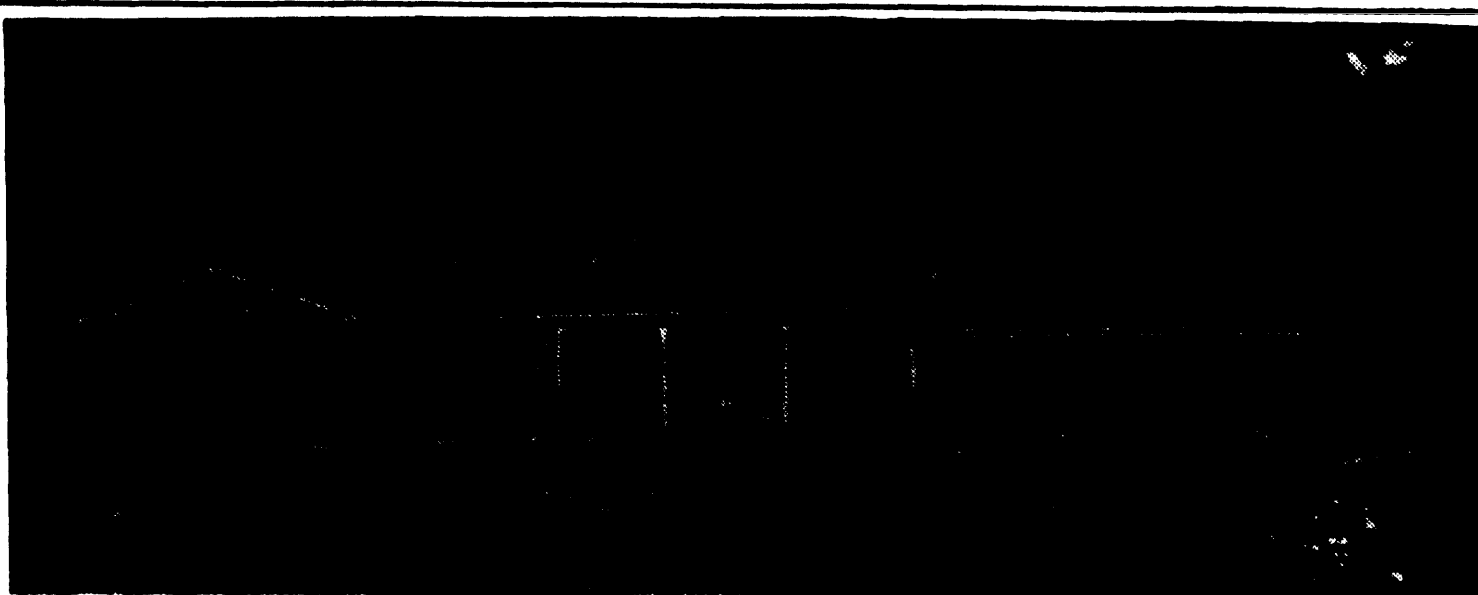

If necessary to apply more than one coat of the acrylic latex trim paint in one day, there should be an interval of more than four or five hours between coats. This is true even though the paint may be dry to the touch in less time. In all painting, incidentally, it usually is safer to wait even longer than the manufacturer recommends before applying a second coat. Too many persons, seeing that certain types of paint require a 24-hour wait between coats, finish up the first coat late in the day and begin the second coat early the next morning, which is hardly 24 hours.

As with most paints, the new trim finish should not be applied in temperatures less than 50 degrees. Below that figure, the paint seems to dry all right, but actually does not fuse properly, leaving a coating that could wash off in the rain.

They still haven't come up with a paint that does away with the necessity of preparing the surface: cleaning off dirt, scraping loose paint, removing mildew, etc. A latex primer is good for bare wood surfaces before coating with the new trim paint.

Spaciousness Is Achieved

By ANDY LANG

Open planning provides the feeling of spaciousness most of us cherish.

By permitting an unobstructed view between what normally would be two or more distinctively separate areas, it gives the illusion of extra space as well as actually creating it.

In this three-bedroom ranch, architect Lester Cohen has utilized open planning to bring together the living room and dining room. Since it is important that open planning not violate the privacy aspect of LIVING ROOM and dining room, placed together with no intervening wall, both have glass doors to rear terrace.

S-56 STATISTICS

Design S-56 is a ranch with a living room, dining room, kitchen - dinette, three bedrooms, two baths, a lavatory and a foyer, totaling 1684 square feet. The plans call for a two-car garage and a basement. A rear terrace is accessible from the living room, dining room and kitchen. The overall dimensions of 79' 6" by 38' include the garage and most of the terrace.

good zoning, there is no interference with the concept of a separate sleeping section. Space is at a premium in a house with less than 1700 square feet of living area, so bedrooms and halls are placed to serve as sound buffers between the bedrooms and the other rooms.

Without constricting walls, the living room and dining room are combined to produce an expansive 24 feet in one direction, 22' in the other. It seems even larger because of the window wall across the back. Sliding glass doors lead to a rear terrace, making the outdoors an integral part of the living scheme. A barbecue on the terrace shares the chimney of the corner fireplace in the living room. This entire arrangement is enhanced by a planter to the left of the living room portion of the open plan and immediately visible from the front foyer.

A well-proportioned kitchen has both a broom closet and a pantry, convenient spacing of counters and appliances, a dinette sector with three exposures and a door to the terrace. Because of its location, jutting out alongside the terrace, the dinette is more than informal eating space, since mother can use the space for a planning or sewing center and keep an eye on outdoor activities of the children.

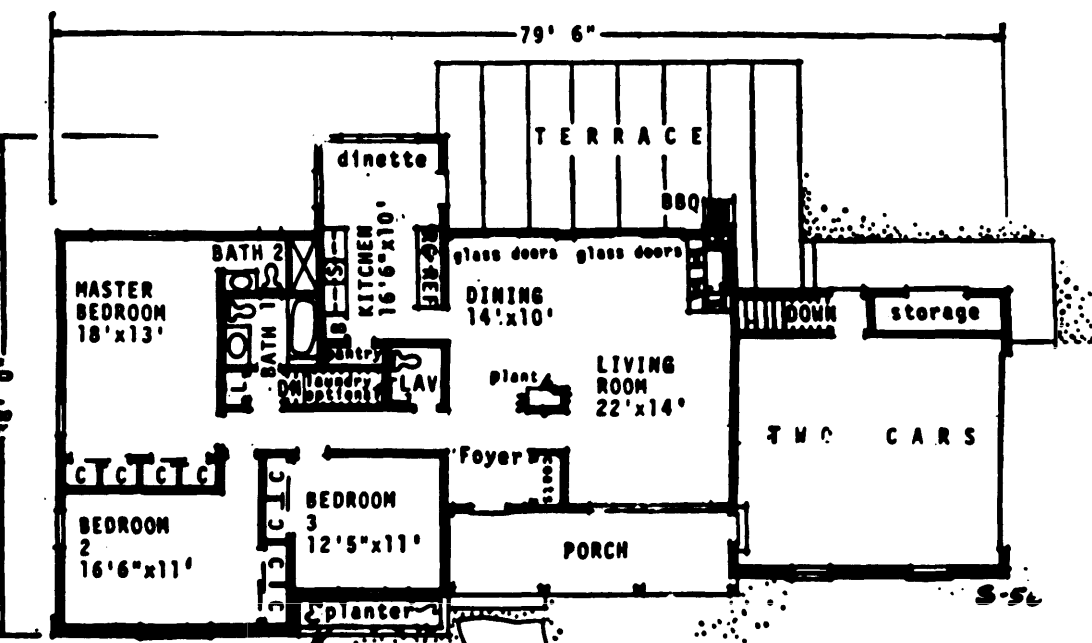

In the left corner of the house, the master bedroom, 18' long, has a view window at the back and another exposure at the side. A private bath with stall shower and a wall of four closets are included. The two front bedrooms share a full bathroom. There is also a separate lavatory off the foyer for family and guest convenience.

The plans call for two stairways to the basement. One is off the bedroom hall, the other at the rear of the two-car garage. But the stairs in the bedroom area can be eliminated if desired, with the space being utilized for a washer and a dryer, giving first floor laundry ease. Incidentally, there is a storage enclosure at the back of the garage with an exterior door.

A columned porch at the front of the house has a door to the garage, providing sheltered access to the automobile on a rainy day. The porch also offers privacy for the living room windows and a pleasant approach in keeping with the country style of a house whose major materials are hand-split shingles and stone.

Education Board Sets U.P. Confab

LANSING (AP)—The State Board of Education will meet Tuesday and Wednesday at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. It will be the first meeting in the Upper Peninsula since the present board was established by the 1963 State Constitution. The board will discuss school disturbances and problems created by a court decision that schools must supply free textbooks to all public school students.

FLOOR PLANS: Considering the modest square footage of the habitable area, the rooms in this ranch are of fair size, a layout made possible by a small foyer and bedroom hall.

HERE'S THE ANSWER

By ANDY LANG

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Q.—Our basement wall sometimes gets wet. I thought there might be some kind of water seepage, but a neighbor says he thinks it is just condensation. Is there any way to determine which it is? And what can I do about it if it is condensation?

A.—Tape a small mirror to a damp wall area and let it stay for 24 hours or so. If the mirror face is covered with moisture, and the wall is still damp, condensation is the problem. If the mirror face is dry, but the wall is damp, it's probably seepage or a leak of some kind. To eliminate condensation, it is necessary to circulate the air in the basement and to get the moisture to leave, either by means of exhaust fans or special vents. It is important, by the way, that automatic dryers be vented to the outside. Condensation can usually be eliminated, if other possible solutions are impractical, by placing a dehumidifier in the trouble area.

Q.—We have a small ranch house 15 years old. A water spot has developed on the ceiling of our living room, about 6 feet in from the outside wall. It's just damp in that area. There is no actual dripping. What can be causing this?

A.—Only a personal inspection can determine the cause of the trouble. If you have an attic, even the crawl type, get into it with a flashlight and see whether there is any sign of a leak. If not, you'll have to find the cause by inspecting every area where water might be entering the house. Start with the outside wall nearest the spot. Look for cracked boards and gaps around the nearest window, especially if there is one in the attic. Check the louvers. See whether there is a blockage of a nearby gutter or downspout. Be sure there is no opening at the back edges of the eaves. If a careful inspection reveals not even a minute opening, you'll have to continue your checkup with the roof. See whether all flashing is intact and whether any shingles are broken, missing or loose. There is no short-cut method of finding out what's wrong.

William Milliken reports a $135,148 grant has been received from the U.S. Justice Department to set up a residential treatment facility in Detroit for young women about to be discharged from correctional institutions. The facility will serve as a half-way house and will be able to handle about 60 residents.

Education Board Sets U.P. Confab

LANSING (AP) — The State Board of Education will meet Tuesday and Wednesday at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. It will be the first meeting in the Upper Peninsula since the present board was established by the 1963 State Constitution. The board will discuss school disturbances and problems created by a court decision that schools must supply free textbooks to all public school students.

HERE'S THE ANSWER

Q.—Our basement wall sometimes gets wet. I thought there might be some kind of water seepage, but a neighbor says he thinks it is just condensation. Is there any way to determine which it is? And what can I do about it if it is condensation?

A.—Tape a small mirror to a damp wall area and let it stay for 24 hours or so. If the mirror face is covered with moisture, and the wall is still damp, condensation is the problem. If the mirror face is dry, but the wall is damp, it's probably seepage or a leak of some kind. To eliminate condensation, it is necessary to circulate the air in the basement and to get the moisture to leave, either by means of exhaust fans or special vents. It is important, by the way, that automatic dryers be vented to the outside. Condensation can usually be eliminated, if other possible solutions are impractical, by placing a dehumidifier in the trouble area.

Q.—We have a small ranch house 15 years old. A water spot has developed on the ceiling of our living room, about 6 feet in from the outside wall. It's just damp in that area. There is no actual dripping. What can be causing this?

A.—Only a personal inspection can determine the cause of the trouble. If you have an attic, even the crawl type, get into it with a flashlight and see whether there is any sign of a leak. If not, you'll have to find the cause by inspecting every area where water might be entering the house. Start with the outside wall nearest the spot. Look for cracked boards and gaps around the nearest window, especially if there is one in the attic. Check the louvers. See whether there is a blockage of a nearby gutter or downspout. Be sure there is no opening at the back edges of the eaves. If a careful inspection reveals not even a minute opening, you'll have to continue your checkup with the roof. See whether all flashing is intact and whether any shingles are broken, missing or loose. There is no short-cut method of finding out what's wrong.

Doris Day, Along With Her Dogs, Hit Scene

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — At precisely 10:30 a.m. a chauffeured limousine swung into a parking space labeled "Doris Day" at CBS's Studio Center.

The car door opened and out tumbled three dogs, poodles in varying degrees.

Like well-trained starlets they made their way directly to a dressing room door. They were followed by a well-scrubbed, freckle-faced blonde in green shirt and shorts.

It was the start of another day's work on "The Doris Day Show," and the arrival of the star had approximately the same amount of excitement as the appearance of a secretary at her desk.

Miss Day—"Doe" to everyone from fellow players to the grips—went directly to the small make-up room in one corner of her suite of rooms, pleaded for a cup of peppermint tea and started applying a light coating of makeup, designed mostly to keep the freckles from being too distracting.

Nixon Advocating Less Paperwork To Save Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has called for a cut-back in executive branch paperwork after noting the cost of shuffling paper in the federal government approaches $10 billion a year.

In a memo to department and agency heads, Nixon put forward a plan for the current budget year that he hopes will save the executive branch $200 million and shave off 5 million man-hours of work.

The action affects individuals, businesses and state and local officials who are required to fill out more than 5,000 questionnaires under the Federal Reports Act.

Norman Peterson, an official of the recently-created Office of Management and Budget, told newsmen at the White House Wednesday night the cost of handling paperwork in the federal government—including the Congress and the courts—currently is estimated at $8 billion to $10 billion each year.

The series will start its third season next month, its first as a recognized success. The series was a sharp disappointment its first year, but a major revision transformed the situation comedy from near-miss to hit in its second season—an accomplishment so rare as to be almost a television miracle.

Miss Day was eager to talk about her dogs—she has a houseful, all adopted strays, but only three like to accompany her to the studio—and the series—which is undergoing further change this season.

Last season, Doris Martin, the widow she plays in the series, was permitted to leave the ranch and a uniform of blue jeans, for a secretary's job in San Francisco and a closet full of dresses. This season, she gets an apartment in town, while the two children stay on the farm.

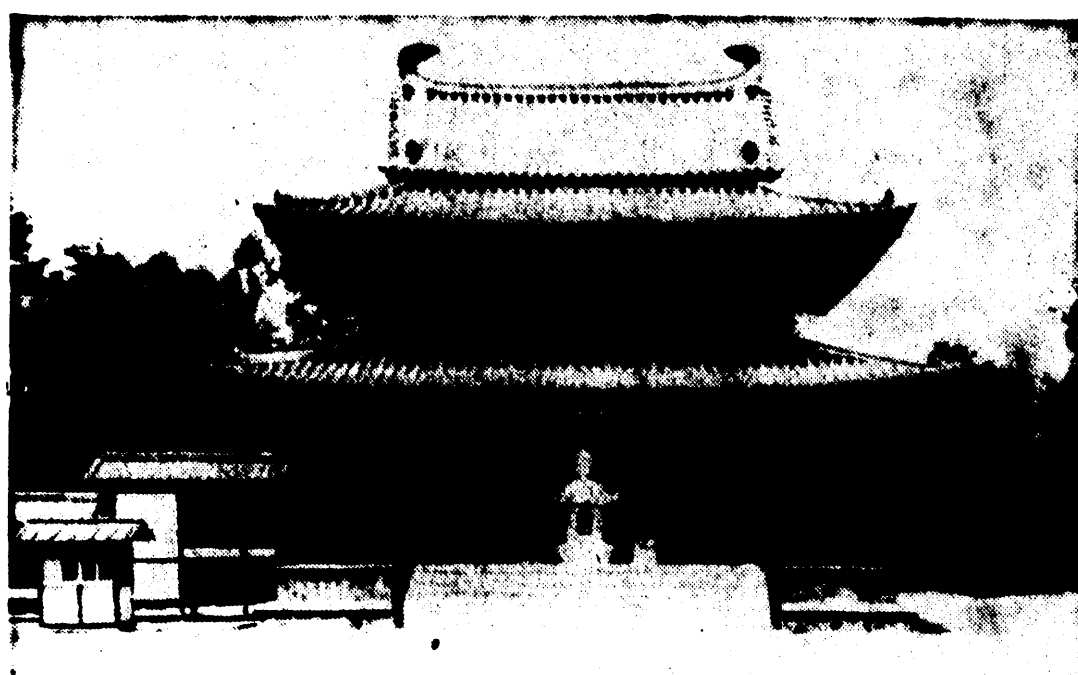

"It's a legitimate change," she observed. "It was very difficult, traveling to and from the ranch."

Since she still plays a secretary, scripts are careful to show how she manages to have such an attractive three-room duplex with patio on a modest salary.

"I pay $150 a month rent because it's over a restaurant," she explained. "Most of the improvements I make myself—as part of the show."

Newcomers to the series this season will include Kaye Ballard and Bernie Kopell playing the couple who run the Italian restaurant, and Doris' old friend, Billy de Wolfe, her new next-door neighbor. De Wolfe always calls her "Clara," the name of the girl she played years ago in a movie called "Tea for Two" where they first met.

In addition to the series, there is an hour special on the CBS shelf awaiting a broadcast date, "The Doris Mary Anne Kappelhoff Show starring Doris Day." "First, the special is part of my CBS commitment," she said. "Second, since I don't do any singing to speak of on the show and there were literally thousands of letters asking me to sing, we put together a musical show with a little talk and pretty sets. Doris Mary Anne Kappelhoff is my real name, you know."

Ford Announces Price Increases On 1971 Models

DETROIT (AP)—Ford Motor Co. is increasing new car wholesale prices to dealers by five per cent—averaging $125 a car—for 1971 models which go on sale this fall.

A company spokesman said it was impossible to say what the price boost may be on the retail level. The wholesale increase was announced this week.

Ford was the first U.S. automaker to announce an increase in 1971 prices, although such increases have been expected as company profits are squeezed between rising costs and sagging sales. There was no immediate reaction from either Chrysler Corp. or General Motors.

Many industry observers believe that the American car-buying public will also be hit with a second round of price increases if contract negotiations between the automakers and the United Auto Workers Union now in progress produce substantial wage increases for workers. Contracts expire Sept. 14 and in the past, big pay hikes have often resulted in mid-model run price hikes.

Senate Approves Cut In Marijuana Selling Penalty

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Senate agreed Thursday to reduce the penalty for sale of marijuana, but refused to lessen the drug.

By a 28-2 vote, the Senate passed a bill that allows judges to sentence a person to up to 10 years in prison and $10,000 for possessing, selling or dispensing the drug cannabis, or marijuana.

Current law provides for a mandatory 20-year sentence for selling any narcotic, including marijuana. Possession of marijuana now is punishable by up to 10 years in prison and $5,000 fine.

The House earlier passed a bill making possession of less than two ounces of marijuana a misdemeanor, punishable by not more than one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The Senate rejected that, keeping the penalty for possession at 10 years, along with the penalty for sale.

Those who sought to lower the penalty for sale of narcotics lost their bout, however, when the Senate returned to committee a house-passed bill removing the provision for a 20-year mandatory sentence for sale.

Backers of the bill argued that judges seldom impose the provision.

9,000 Yanks Answer Aussie Teaching Ad

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An advertisement with the invitation "Teach in the happy country down under" has drawn inquiries from 9,000 teachers in the United States.

The drive is for schools in New South Wales, the state which has Sydney as its capital.

"We have been astonishingly successful," says Cecil Rubie, of the state's Education Ministry. "We have had to send four additional staff members to the United States to cope with the inquiries."

The advertisement ran once in single newspapers in Washington, New York, St. Louis, San Francisco, Los Angeles, New Orleans and Chicago.

An ad in Canada drew 1,500 inquiries. One ran in chilly Britain and headed "Teach in the sun" brought 3,500 bids for further information.

The greatest number of American inquiries came from California, where some 3,000 teachers responded to the ad, the Education Ministry said. About 2,200 teachers from New York expressed interest, while 1,125 from Maryland and 960 from Connecticut replied.

The unofficial target is 1,000 teachers to overcome what threatens to be an acute shortage in 1971-72.

If 1,000 teachers arrive, this "happy country down under" will be happier; if double this number decides to immigrate it will be delighted.

The shortage stems mainly from a change in the school system under which pupils study for six years in secondary school instead of five. The alteration set up a delayed-action gap of school-leavers which will become evident this year with fewer college graduates taking teacher training.

Judge Named

LANSING (AP)—Gov. William Milliken has appointed Luke Quinn of Davison as Genesee County Probate Judge. Quinn had served as 67th District Circuit Judge since 1969 and succeeds the late Richard C. Evans of Flint for a term expiring Jan. 1, 1971.

New Procedures Set By Fleming At Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Deans and other officials of the University of Michigan henceforth must consult with the central administration before ordering demonstrators to vacate buildings.

In announcing the new procedure, President Robben Fleming said advance consultation is required "to assure that the right of peaceful dissent is adequately safeguarded" and "to comply with the extremely technical notice requirements of state laws."

A new state law which became effective Aug. 1 makes it a misdemeanor to disrupt educational institutions after notice to vacate has been given.

Fleming said the new consultation procedures apply only to major disturbances and are not intended "to limit the authority of faculty and administrative personnel to order cessation of disruptions of classes or other activities" in what was termed less serious cases.

The advance warning about continued occupation of facilities must include that it subjects participants to both disciplinary action and criminal prosecution.

U-M's Only Dean Is Dead At Age 71

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Walter B. Rea, 71, only person to serve as dean of men at the University of Michigan, died Thursday in an Ann Arbor hospital.

Rea served as U-M dean of men from 1962, when the post was established, until 1968 when it was abolished. He was then appointed assistant vice president for student affairs and director of financial aids. He retired about a year ago.

In 1922 while attending U-M, Rea was captain of the track team and a star basketball player.

Long Prison Term

HILLSDALE (AP) — Michael Kreps, 20, of Hillsdale, was sentenced to 20 to 25 years imprisonment Thursday for sale of marijuana. At the same time, Kreps filed notice of appeal from his conviction by a Hillsdale Circuit Court jury last month. Sentence was passed by Judge Robert W. McIntyre.

Senate Approves Cut In Marijuana Selling Penalty

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Senate agreed Thursday to reduce the penalty for sale of marijuana, but refused to lessen the drug.

By a 28-2 vote, the Senate passed a bill that allows judges to sentence a person to up to 10 years in prison and $10,000 for possessing, selling or dispensing the drug cannabis, or marijuana.

Current law provides for a mandatory 20-year sentence for selling any narcotic, including marijuana. Possession of marijuana now is punishable by up to 10 years in prison and $5,000 fine.

The House earlier passed a bill making possession of less than two ounces of marijuana a misdemeanor, punishable by not more than one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The Senate rejected that, keeping the penalty for possession at 10 years, along with the penalty for sale.

Those who sought to lower the penalty for sale of narcotics lost their bout, however, when the Senate returned to committee a house-passed bill removing the provision for a 20-year mandatory sentence for sale.

Backers of the bill argued that judges seldom impose the provision.

An ad in Canada drew 1,500 inquiries. One ran in chilly Britain and headed "Teach in the sun" brought 3,500 bids for further information.

The greatest number of American inquiries came from California, where some 3,000 teachers responded to the ad, the Education Ministry said. About 2,200 teachers from New York expressed interest, while 1,125 from Maryland and 960 from Connecticut replied.

The unofficial target is 1,000 teachers to overcome what threatens to be an acute shortage in 1971-72.

If 1,000 teachers arrive, this "happy country down under" will be happier; if double this number decides to immigrate it will be delighted.

The shortage stems mainly from a change in the school system under which pupils study for six years in secondary school instead of five. The alteration set up a delayed-action gap of school-leavers which will become evident this year with fewer college graduates taking teacher training.

New Procedures Set By Fleming At Ann Arbor

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Deans and other officials of the University of Michigan henceforth must consult with the central administration before ordering demonstrators to vacate buildings.

In announcing the new procedure, President Robben Fleming said advance consultation is required "to assure that the right of peaceful dissent is adequately safeguarded" and "to comply with the extremely technical notice requirements of state laws."

A new state law which became effective Aug. 1 makes it a misdemeanor to disrupt educational institutions after notice to vacate has been given.

Fleming said the new consultation procedures apply only to major disturbances and are not intended "to limit the authority of faculty and administrative personnel to order cessation of disruptions of classes or other activities" in what was termed less serious cases.

The advance warning about continued occupation of facilities must include that it subjects participants to both disciplinary action and criminal prosecution.

U-M's Only Dean Is Dead At Age 71

ANN ARBOR (AP) — Walter B. Rea, 71, only person to serve as dean of men at the University of Michigan, died Thursday in an Ann Arbor hospital.

Rea served as U-M dean of men from 1952, when the post was established, until 1962 when it was abolished. He was then appointed assistant vice president for student affairs and director of financial aids. He retired about a year ago.

In 1922 while attending U-M, Rea was captain of the track team and a star basketball player.

Long Prison Term

HILLSDALE (AP) — Michael Kreps, 20, of Hillsdale, was sentenced to 20 to 25 years imprisonment Thursday for sale of marijuana. At the same time, Kreps filed notice of appeal from his conviction by a Hillsdale Circuit Court jury last month. Sentence was passed by Judge Robert W. McIntyre.

Tigers, Yanks Split Pair; Murcer's 'Lucky' HR Helps

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'd rather be lucky," decided Bobby Murcer, "than good."

Murcer was good... and lucky too, Thursday night when his 17th home run of the year brought New York from behind and helped the Yankees knocked off Detroit 7-5 for a split of their two-night doubleheader.

Mike Kilkenny's four-bitter gave the Tigers the opener 2-1.

The Tigers were leading the second game 5-3 when Horace Clarke opened the fifth inning with a double to left. Jake Gibbs struck out and that brought up Murcer.

Outfield Crossed Up

"As soon as I hit the ball," said Murcer, "I went into my putout trot. But the ball kept carrying and he kept running."

"He" was like Brown, normally an infielder, who happened to be playing left field when Murcer hit his ball. Brown ran, and ran, and ran some more. The ball and Brown arrived at the left field fence simultaneously. It glanced off his glove and into the seats for a very lucky home run.

Managers Confused

From the dugouts, managers Ralph Houk of the Yankees and Mayo Smith of the Tigers, weren't quite sure what had happened. "You can't really see from there," said Houk. "But I knew he had dropped it by his reaction when he was leaning into the seats. He was groping for it, trying to find it."

"I couldn't tell from the dugout," said Smith, "but Brown said he had the ball in his glove when he hit the fence." Brown, lifted for a pinch hitter immediately after the incident, was unavailable for his version.

Murcer, converting his putout trot to a home run saunter, sympathized with Brown trying to come up with the baseball.

"One of the plays I want to make someday is to lean into the stands like that, catch the ball and stay there while the runners circle the bases. Then I'll come up with the baseball and throw it back," he said.

Sympathize With Brown

Murcer's homer—or was it a four-base error?—tied the game for the Yankees and an inning later a double by Jerry Kennedy, Gene Michael's bunt single and a double play brought the winning run home. Michael singled in an insurance run in the eighth and Lindy McDaniel nailed down the victory with three scoreless innings of relief.

Kilkenny Throttles Yanks

In the opener, Kilkenny throttled the Yankees on four hits and outduelled Mel Stottlemyre. He retired the last 10 men in a row and didn't allow a hit after the fourth inning.

Mickey Stanley, who had five hits in the doubleheader, scored both Detroit runs in the first game. He tripled in the third and trotted in on a wild pitch. Then he doubled in the fifth and came around on an infield out and Jim Northrup's sacrifice fly.

The split kept the Yankees one-half game ahead of Detroit in the battle for second place in the American League East.

HN Grid Call

Coach Doug Bovin of the Holy Name Crusaders has issued a call to all varsity football players to report to the locker room at 8:30 a.m. on Monday, Aug. 10 with football shoes or tennis shoes.

Freshman and sophomore players are to report to the locker room at 8:30 a.m. on Monday morning.

Farmington Gains State LL Finals

ST. CLAIR (AP) — Farmington scored all its runs in the last of the sixth inning to defeat Harper Woods, 2-to-1 in the semifinals of the state Little League Championships at St. Clair.

Farmington thus wins the right to meet the winner of today's Muskegon-South-Huron Shores game for the state title on Saturday.

Michigan State ranks 11th in the listings of the nation's major college football teams in won-loss percentages the last 25 years. The Spartan record over the period is 158 wins, 70 losses and seven ties for a percentage of .693.

Triple Bogey Knocks Jacobs From Golf Lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Tommy Jacobs was cool, calm and collected after a horrendous triple bogey eight knocked him out of a shot at a course record and a commanding lead in the first round of the $150,000 American Golf Classic.

"It was just one of those things," the 35-year-old veteran said Thursday after he had lost four shots on two holes and plummeted back into a tie for second place behind leader George Archer.

Jacobs, a slim, soft-spoken veteran in a lengthy slump who last won in 1965, finished with a two-under par 68 on the tough 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course.

He trailed Archer by one stroke and was tied for second with 41-year-old Paul Harney, now a club pro at Sutton, Mass., and only a part-time tourist.

A big group headed by host pro Bobby Nichols followed at 49. Others included Australian Bruce Crampton, Bob Goelby, John Miller, Steve Reid, Phil Tommy also bogeyed the next

ack. He was philosophical about it, however, shrugged and commented: "If I don't get 'em today, I'll get 'em tomorrow."

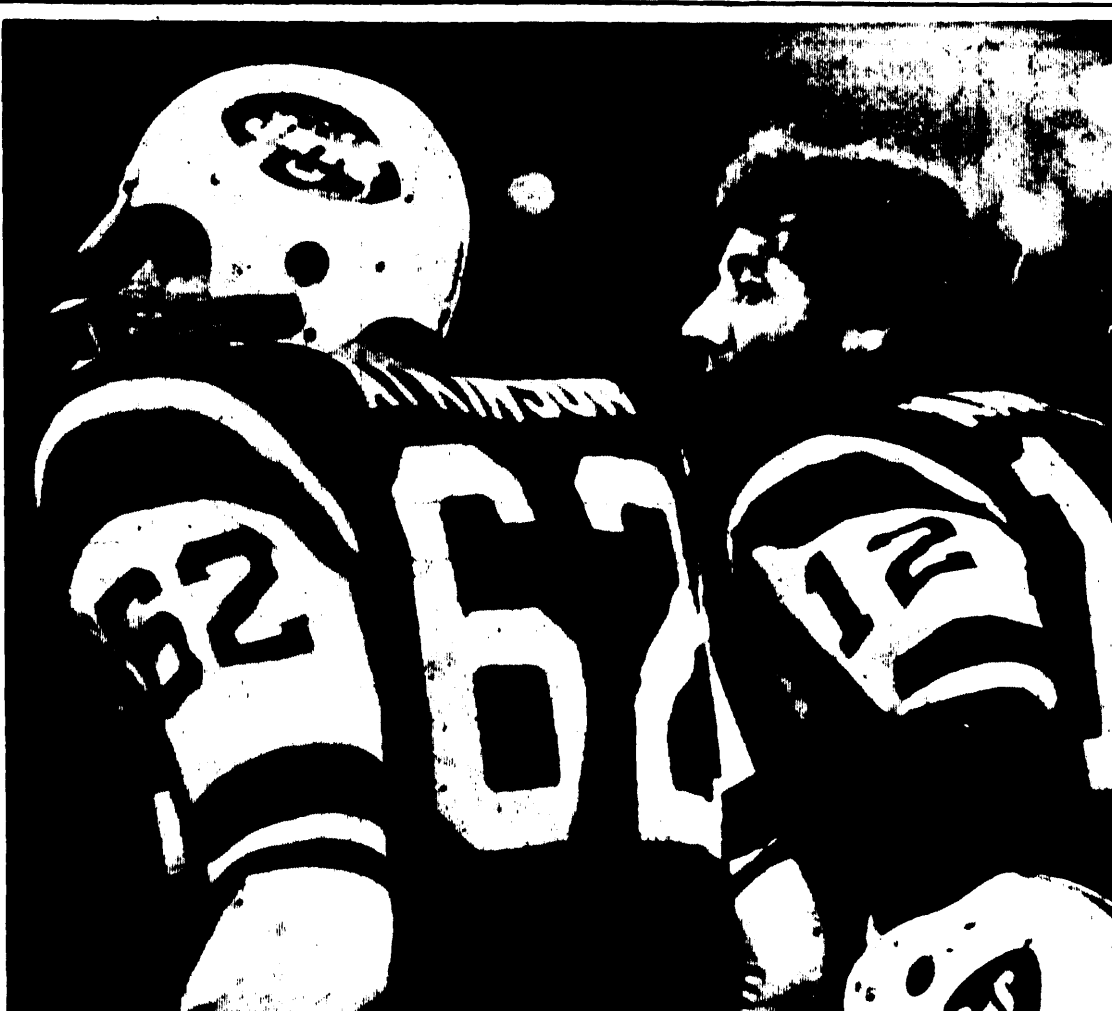

Archer, the tallest player on the tour at six-foot-six, hasn't won since he took the Master's title in 1960.

He fought off the mild handicap of a bee sting on his right hand to make the turn in 33, two under par, matched two early birdies with a pair of bogeys, then assumed full control with a nine-foot putt on the 17th, just about the time Jacobs met disaster on the 16th.

Powers Gains Softball Finals

POWERS — In tournament play last weekend, Powers-Spalding advanced to the league finals by whipping Bark River 10-2. The Powers nine will meet Falthorn in the championship game Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Powers diamond.

In preparation for the Class D District tournament in Escanaba next week, Bark River will play an exhibition game with Rapid River Saturday at 8:30 p.m.

PROBLEM PLAGUED JOE — Joe Namath, right, New York Jets star quarterback, is shown standing next to teammate Al Atkinson during Houston Oilers game at Shea Stadium in New York in 1969. Namath has received verbal blasts from Atkinson who quit the Jets club Wednesday in disgust. (AP Wirephoto)

Little Guy Doing Big Job For Front-Running Pirates

By The Associated Press

Roberto Clemente, Willie Stargell, Al Oliver, Bob Robertson... those are the big guys in the Pittsburgh line-up. But little Fred Patek is growing. He's growing.

He stands only 5-foot-6 and weighs only 165 pounds, but the miniature shortstop had been wielding a big, big bat for the Pirates. Thursday night was a good example.

While Stargell hit two sacrifice flies and a homer, Oliver drove in four runs with a double and a triple and Robertson hit a three-run homer, Patek was up front setting them up with runs batted in situation. He ripped a double, a triple and four singles, and walked once, and scored five runs.

Sweep Twin Bill

The result: The Pirates swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0 and 8-3, and increased their national league East lead to 2 1/2 games over the New York Mets, who lost to St. Louis 3-0.

In other games, the Chicago Cubs moved within two games of the Mets with a 4-2 victory over Montreal. Houston beat San Diego 8-6 and Atlanta downed Los Angeles 4-1 in night games.

San Francisco hammered Cincinnati 9-3 in the afternoon.

Patek's mini explosion—he had two hits in the opener and four in the nightcap—gave him 20 hits in his last 39 at bats, raising his average from .228 to .301 as an occasional replacement for Gene Alley, who is suffering from a sore heel.

Patek Scores Twice

He singled in the first inning of the first game and scored on

Oliver's double, and then he doubled in the eighth and scored on Alou's single. It was more than enough for Dock Ellis, 12-8, who stopped the Phillies on six hits in outduelling Jim Bunning, 8-11.

In the nightcap, Patek opened with a walk and scored on Stargell's sacrifice fly, singled in the third and scored on Oliver's triple before Robertson unloaded in the inning. He added a single in the fourth, then tripled in the seventh and scored on Alou's single, and singled again in the eighth.

Cardinals On Move

The Mets came to Pittsburgh after having ace Tom Seaver, 16-6, beaten by Nelson Briles, 4-3, the Cardinals' ninth victory in 11 games which moved them ahead of the Phillies into fourth place.

Briles' seven-hitter with nine strikeouts snapped Seaver's nine-game winning streak as the Cardinals scored on a double steal in the first inning and then rapped four hits for two runs in the fourth.

Flirts With No-Hitter

Ken Holtzman, 12-8, flirted with the second no-hitter of his career and the first major league game ever in Canada when he silenced Montreal without a hit for seven innings. But John Boccabella opened the eighth with a single and Adolfo Phillips later singled him home.

Bob Bailey added a double in the ninth, and scored on two ground outs.

Ron Santo led the Cubs' attack with two singles, a double and his 15th homer, driving in one run and scoring three.

WATCH THOSE GASKETS

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—Edward Renck of Pueblo says failure to notice a loose gasket in the fuel tank knocked his car out of the National Hot Rod Association races at Pomona, Calif. Renck said repairs after the subsequent explosion would have cost $800. A new gasket would have cost five cents.

Vince's Condition Reported 'Grave'

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Vince Lombardi isn't present in the Washington Redskins training camp this summer. He might not even be with the team this season.

But he is here at Dickinson College in many ways, due to the efforts of Bill Austin, one of his assistants who was named interim coach of the Redskins.

Lombardi lies in Georgetown University Hospital in Washington where he underwent two operations in exactly a month.

Kolesar Clings To One Stroke U.P. Golf Lead

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. — The Escanaba area was left without a qualifier in the championship flight of the Upper Peninsula Men's Golf Association tournament for the first time in many years today as the field continued to pursue young Ray Kolesar of Ironwood on the third round of the tournament.

Kolesar, 19, slipped to a 76 Thursday but still captured qualifying medalist honors for the first 36 holes with 147.

Eighteen golfers qualified for the championship flight with the remainder of the field competing over the 72-hole route in lower flights.

A pair of Canadian Soo golfers — Wayne Viita and Paul Kates — were only one stroke behind Kolesar, who last year was tied for the lead in the U.P. tournament at Menominee after two rounds only to fade on the third day.

Viita blazed around the par 36 front nine Tuesday in three-under-par 33, then cooled off with a 38 on the back. His one-under-par 71 coupled with a first day 77 for 148, matching the total of Kates who turned in his second consecutive 74.

Two strokes off Kolesar's pace were Paul Bielata of Iron Mountain and Larry Tiziani of Ironwood, both at 149, while Don Misere and Cap Gravelle, both of Canadian Soo, were bracketed at 150.

Defending champion Ken Hruska of Marquette shot 76 Wednesday and stood six strokes behind Kolesar at 153.

Cut off for the championship flight was 156. The final position went to Dr. Don Murwin of Menominee, who defeated Bill Greco of Canadian Soo in a sudden death playoff after both men turned in identical rounds of 79 and 77.

The tournament will continue today and Saturday with 18 holes each day.

Nationals Win All-Star Tilt

A five-run outburst in the top of the 10th inning gave the Nationals a 9-4 victory over the Americans in the Babe Ruth All-Star game played at the Al Nese Field Thursday evening.

The Americans tied the game in the eighth inning before the Nationals sent 11 players to bat in the 10th inning uprising. Walks to Al Schwalbach, Bob Dupont, Matt Smith and Bob Fassbender started things off for the Nationals.

Bob Smith then doubled to drive in two runs and Rich Miketnac followed with a single to drive in another. The other two runs were forced in when batters were walked with the bases loaded.

The Nationals opened the scoring in the top of the first when Miketnac walked and Wayne Schwalbach hit a ground rule double to the deepest part of the Al Nese Field. Brian Douglas then drove both Miketnac and Schwalbach in with a single through the hole at short.

The Americans came back with one run in the bottom of the first when Gary Bougie walked, stole second, moved to third on a ground out and scored on a passed ball.

Walks to John Hirm, Jim Moberg, Tom Peterson and Bob Smith gave the Nationals their third run in the top of the second, but once again the Americans came back with a run on a walk to Jim Joran and a single by Mike Cvenogus.

The Nationals scored again in the fifth following a walk to Smith, a passed ball, a ground out and a single by Wayne Schwalbach, but the Americans stayed close by scoring again in the sixth. This time it was Joran scoring following an error, a walk, another error and another walk.

The Americans tied it up in the eighth when Mike Duiley led off with a walk. Joran followed with a single and Steve Beland singled.

Miketnac, Matt Smith, Wayne Schwalbach and Hirm handled the pitching chores for the Nationals, with Schwalbach getting credit for the victory. The four hurlers combined to allow just four hits and strike out nine batters.

Jim Nevela, Tom Ritter, Danley, John Greis and Beland all toiled on the mound for the Americans, and Greis was charged with the defeat. They combined to give up seven hits and strike out five.

Rochester Tops Mud Hens 7-3

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Rochester Red Wings scored five runs in the first three innings and took a 7-3 victory over Toledo.

Dick Boney went the distance for the Red Wings, scattering seven hits, including a two-run homer by Mud Hen catcher Gene Lamont.

The two teams face each other again today and Saturday in International League action.

Unusual Tourney Scheduled Sunday

NAHMA — A tournament with an unusual twist is scheduled Sunday at the Nahma Golf Club at 1:30 p.m. Golfers playing in this tournament will be required to play the entire 18 holes with just one club.

Entries for the One-Club Tourney will be taken at the course and golfers may register before beginning their round.

George LaBrasseur, manager of the Nahma Golf Club, is the defending champion. He scored an 81 last year with a 4-iron. Dean Roddy of Gladstone is also expected to enter this year's event since he has won the tourney three times with a 4-wood.

Pitchers Thrilled As Tribe, Orioles Split

Dean Chance hurled a first-game 4-0 shutout for Cleveland and said he was "thrilled," while Jim Hardin pitched and hit Baltimore to a 7-1 victory in the second game to give himself a birthday present.

It was Hardin's third victory of the season's second over the Indians - and he aided his own cause by smashing a two-run triple to cap a three-run second inning in the second header Thursday night.

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota edged California 2-1 in 14 innings, Kansas City edged Oakland 5-3, Washington topped Boston 5-3, and the Chicago White Sox took Milwaukee 7-3.

Hardin, who celebrated his 27th birthday Thursday, had only one hit in 33 trips to the plate this season and confessed that "I'm not a good hitter," but added, "I'm not as bad as my record would indicate either."

That was the same report issued by a team spokesman Thursday night. There have been persistent, but unconfirmed, rumors that Lombardi's condition is grave.

Austin, an assistant to Lombardi at Green Bay from 1959 through 1964, before becoming an assistant at Los Angeles and then head coach of Pittsburgh, was named interim coach July 17.

Austin is an attentive student in the Lombardi school, where the emphasis is on execution and repetition until everything is done virtually as second nature.

His organization leaves nothing to chance, as per Lombardi's teachings.

Former Lion Inducted Into Hall Of Fame

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Former National Football League great Jack Christianson, Tom Fears, Hugh McElhenry and Pete Piro will be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in ceremonies here Saturday.

Their induction will be followed in the afternoon with the season's first exhibition game between two pro teams with Fears coaching the New Orleans Saints against the Minnesota Vikings.

Christiansen was an all-NFL defensive halfback for six of the eight seasons he played for the Detroit Lions in the 1950's, a period in which the Lions won three league titles and one division crown.

He was also an outstanding punt returner, taking four punts back for touchdowns as a rookie in 1951 and having an average return of 21.5 yards in his second season. He is to be presented for induction Saturday by Raymond "Buddy" Parker, his first coach at Detroit.

Fears, an end from 1948 to 1956 for the Los Angeles Rams, is the only player to have led the NFL in pass receiving in his first three seasons.

McElhenry, a running back who spent nine of his 13 pro seasons with the San Francisco 49ers, will be presented by 49ers President Lou Spieck, who signed him to his first pro contract in 1952.

Piros was a two-way performer for his first five seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles (1947-1951), catching 176 passes in that time and being named an all-league choice in 1948 and 1949.

Saturday's enshrinement will bring the number of Hall of Fame honorees to 63 in the NFL's 50th year. The American Professional Football Association, forerunner of the NFL, was founded in Canton on Sept. 17, 1920.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle is scheduled to make closing remarks at the enshrinement.

Paper Mill and Heynsen-Selins advanced in the city slow pitch tournament Thursday night while the Amvets and Lombardi's were eliminated.

Paper Mill, behind a 22 hit attack, jumped off to a 6-0 lead in the first inning and continued padding its lead in every inning in turning back Lombardi's 21-16.

Jim McDonnell led the 22 hit attack for the Paper Mill with four hits in four trips to the plate, including a home run, while Fritz VanHoffen, Larry LaPlant, Fran Derouin and Bob Trombley all chipped in with three hits apiece. Derouin also had a home run for the winners while Bob Hay homered for Lombardi's.

Larry LaPlant won the mound decision over Joe Heller.

Heynsen-Selins remained in contention for the championship by edging the AMVETS 3-0 as Don Alimenti and Skip Perryman hooked up in a pitching duel with Alimenti winning the game in the late innings.

After five scoreless innings, Heynsen-Selins broke the ice by scoring all three of their runs in the sixth inning when Roger Olson and John Wolf connected for singles, a sacrifice by Dick Stanchina scored Olson and Dale Flynn followed with a two-run double.

Jerry Liebel paced Heynsen-Selins' attack with three hits, while Olson, Flynn, Alimenti and Ray Taponi had two hits apiece.

The son of Michigan State Big Ten faculty representative John Fuzak has been awarded a 1970 NCAA post-graduate scholarship. Young John was an outstanding grinder at Alma College.

Tigers, Yanks Split Pair; Murcer's 'Lucky' HR Helps

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'd rather be lucky," decided Bob Murcer, "than good."

Murcer was good ... and lucky too, Thursday night when his 17th home run of the year brought New York from behind and helped the Yankees knocked off Detroit 7-5 for a split of their two-night doubleheader.

Mike Kilkenny's four-hit performance gave the Tigers the opener 2-1. The Tigers were leading the second game 5-3 when Horace Clarke opened the fifth inning with a double to left. Jake Gibbs struck out and that brought up Murcer.

Outfield Crossed Up

bat. This one distinctly lacked that special feel.

"As soon as I hit the ball," said Murcer, "I went into my putout trot. But the ball kept carrying and he kept running."

"He" was Ike Brown, normally an infielder, who happened to be playing left field when Murcer hit his ball. Brown ran, and ran, and ran some more. The ball and Brown arrived at the left field fence simultaneously. It glanced off his glove and into the seats for a very lucky home run.

Managers Confused

From the dugouts, managers Ralph Houk of the Yankees and Mayo Smith of the Tigers, weren't quite sure what had happened. "You can't really see from there," said Houk. "But I knew he had dropped it by his reaction when he was leaning into the seats. He was groping for it, trying to find it."

"I couldn't tell from the dugout," said Smith, "but Brown said he had the ball in his glove when he hit the fence." Brown, lifted for a pinch hitter immediately after the incident, was unavailable for his version.

Murcer, converting his putout trot to a home run saunter, sympathized with Brown trying to come up with the baseball.

"One of the plays I want to make someday is to lean into the stands like that, catch the ball and stay there while the runners circle the bases. Then I'll come up with the baseball and throw it back," he said.

Sympathize With Brown

Murcer's homer—or was it a four-base error?—tied the game for the Yankees and an inning later a double by Jerry Kennedy, Gene Michael's bunt single and a double play brought the winning run home. Michael singled in an insurance run in the eighth and Lindy McDaniel nailed down the victory with three scoreless innings of relief.

Kilkenny Throttles Yanks

In the opener, Kilkenny throttled the Yankees on four hits and outduelled Mel Stottlemyre. He retired the last 10 men in a row and didn't allow a hit after the fourth inning.

Mickey Stanley, who had five hits in the doubleheader, scored both Detroit runs in the first game. He tripled in the third and trotted in on a wild pitch. Then he doubled in the fifth and came around on an infield out and Jim Northrup's sacrifice fly.

The split kept the Yankees one-half game ahead of Detroit in the battle for second place in the American League East.

Farmington Gains State LL Finals

ST. CLAIR (AP) — Farmington scored all its runs in the last of the sixth inning to defeat Harper Woods, 2-to-1 in the semifinals of the state Little League Championships at St. Clair.

Farmington thus wins the right to meet the winner of today's Muskegon South-Huron Shores game for the state title on Saturday.

Michigan State ranks 11th in the listings of the nation's major college football teams in won-lost percentages the last 25 years. The Spartan record over the period is 158 wins, 70 losses and seven ties for a percentage of .693.

Triple Bogey Knocks Jacobs From Golf Lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Tommy Jacobs was cool, calm and collected after a horrendous triple bogey eight knocked him out of a shot at a course record and a commanding lead in the first round of the $150,000 American Golf Classic.

"It was just one of those things," the 35-year-old veteran said Thursday after he had lost four shots on two holes and plummeted back into a tie for second place behind leader George Archer.

Jacobs, a slim, soft-spoken veteran in a lengthy slump who last won in 1965, finished with a two-under par 68 on the tough 7,180-yard Firestone Country Club course.

He trailed Archer by one stroke and was tied for second with 41-year-old Paul Harney, now a club pro at Sutton, Mass., and only a parttime tourist.

A big group headed by host pro Bobby Nichols followed at 69. Others included Australian Bruce Crampton, Bob Goalby, John Miller, Steve Reid, Phil

Little Guy Doing Big Job For Front-Running Pirates

By The Associated Press

Roberto Clemente, Willie Stargell, Al Oliver, Bob Robertson ... those are the big guys in the Pittsburgh line-up. But little Fred Patek is growing. He's growing.

He stands only 5-foot-6 and weighs only 165 pounds, but the miniature shortstop had been wielding a big bat for the Pirates. Thursday night was a good example.

While Stargell hit two sacrifice flies and a homer, Oliver drove in four runs with a double and a triple and Robertson hit a three-run homer, Patek was up front setting them up with runs batted in situation. He ripped a double, a triple and four singles, and walked once, and scored five runs.

Sweep Twin Bill

The result: the Pirates swept a doubleheader from the Philadelphia Phillies 4-0 and 8-3, and increased their national League East lead to 2½ games over the New York Mets, who lost to St. Louis 3-0.

In other games, the Chicago Cubs moved within two games of the Mets with a 4-2 victory over Montreal, Houston beat San Diego 8-6 and Atlanta downed Los Angeles 4-1 in night games. San Francisco hammered Cincinnati 9-3 in the afternoon.

Patek's mini explosion—he had two hits in the opener and four in the nightcap—gave him 20 hits in his last 39 at bats, raising his average from .228 to .301 as an occasional replacement for Gene Alley, who is suffering from a sore heel.

Patek Scores Twice

He singled in the first inning of the first game and scored on

Oliver's double, and then he doubled in the eighth and scored on Alou's single. It was more than enough for Dock Ellis, 12-8, who stopped the Phillies on six hits in outdueling Jim Bunning, 8-11.

In the nightcap, Patek opened with a walk and scored on Stargell's sacrifice fly, singled in the third and scored on Oliver's triple before Robertson unloaded in the inning. He added a single in the fourth, then tripled in the seventh and scored on Alou's single, and singled again in the eighth.

Bruce Dal Canton, 7-1, stopped the Phillies this time on six hits, winning his third game in four starts since leaving the bullpen.

Cardinals On Move

The Mets came to Pittsburgh after having ace Tom Seaver, 16-6, beaten by Nelson Briles, 4-3, the Cardinals' ninth victory in 11 games which moved them ahead of the Phillies into fourth place.

Briles' seven-hitter with nine strikeouts snapped Seaver's nine-game winning streak as the Cardinals scored on a double steal in the first inning and then rapped four hits for two runs in the fourth.

Flirts With No-Hitter

Ken Holtzman, 12-9, flirted with the second no-hitter of his career and the first major league game ever in Canada when he silenced Montreal without a hit for seven innings. But John Boccabella opened the eighth with a single and Adolfo Phillips later singled him home. Bob Bailey added a double in the ninth, and scored on two ground outs.

Ron Santo led the Cubs' attack with two singles, a double and his 15th homer, driving in one run and scoring three.

Dean Chance hurled a first-game 4-0 shutout for Cleveland and said he was "thrilled," while Jim Hardin pitched and hit Baltimore to a 7-1 victory in the second game to give himself a birthday present.

It was Hardin's third victory of the season—the second over the Indians — and he aided his own cause by smashing a two-run triple to cap a three-run second inning in the second header Thursday night.

Elsewhere in the American League, Minnesota edged California 2-1 in 14 innings, Kansas City edged Oakland 5-3, Washington topped Boston 5-2 and the Chicago White Sox took Milwaukee 7-3.

Hardin, who celebrated his 27th birthday Thursday, had only one hit in 33 trips to the plate this season and confessed that "I'm not a good hitter," but added, "I'm not as bad as my record would indicate either."

Grant Not Concerned About Losing Kapp

MANKATO, Minn. (AP) — Bud Grant, Minnesota Vikings' coach, isn't overly concerned about the possible loss of his No. 1 quarterback, Joe Kapp.

"Players come and go," Grant said Thursday. "You can't call off the season if your quarterback goes down."

Kapp is seeking a five-year contract for $1.25 million, while the Vikings have offered him $100,000 a year for three years.

The Vikings say they will not meet Kapp's demands, and Kapp's attorney has rejected the Viking offer.

The impasse prompted John Elliot Cook, Kapp's attorney, to say Thursday that, "The Vikings are out of the picture now."

But Cook had no comment when asked if negotiations had started with any other pro football team.

"Joe has placed his matters in my hands, and I assume complete responsibility for his decisions," Cook said at his Glenbrook, Nev. home. "We've talked over everything together and Joe has agreed to my recommendations."

Veteran quarterback Gary Cuozzo, who apparently would inherit Kapp's starting role, said: "I'm here to play football. I can win with the Vikings."

There was a general feeling among Vikings veterans that Kapp would eventually come to terms with the Vikings.

Kapp came out of the Canadian Football League and signed with the Vikings just before the 1967 season. The Vikings had an 0-4 record when he was given his first starting assignment. He led the team to a 10-7 victory over Green Bay, and Minnesota was 3-4-3 the rest of the season under Kapp.

The Vikings won the Central Division title and next year with an 8-6 record and notched a 12-2 mark last year in winning the league title.

Former Lion Inducted Into Hall Of Fame

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Former National Football League greats Jack Christiansen, Tom Fears, Hugh McElhenny and Pete Pihos will be inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in ceremonies here Saturday.

Their induction will be followed in the afternoon with the season's first exhibition game between two pro teams with Fears coaching the New Orleans Saints against the Minnesota Vikings.

Christiansen was an all-NFL defensive halfback for six of the eight seasons he played for the Detroit Lions in the 1950's, a period in which the Lions won three league titles and one division crown.

He was also an outstanding punt returner, taking four punts back for touchdowns as a rookie in 1951 and having an average return of 21.5 yards in his second season. He is to be presented for induction Saturday by Raymond "Buddy" Parker, his first coach at Detroit.

Fears, an end from 1948 to 1956 for the Los Angeles Rams, is the only player to have led the NFL in pass receiving in his first three seasons.

McElhenny, a running back who spent nine of his 13 pro seasons with the San Francisco 49ers, will be presented by 49ers President Lou Spadina, who signed him to his first pro contract in 1952.

Pihos was a two-way performer for his first five seasons with the Philadelphia Eagles (1947-1951), catching 176 passes in that time and being named an all-league choice in 1948 and 1949.

Saturday's enshrinement will bring the number of Hall of Fame honorees to 63 in the NFL's 50th year. The American Professional Football Association, forerunner of the NFL, was founded in Canton on Sept. 17, 1920.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle is scheduled to make closing remarks at the enshrinement.

Lions Appear Strong-- Only At Quarterback

DETROIT (AP) — When the Super Bowl champion Kansas City Chiefs trot onto Tiger Stadium turn Saturday for the pre-season opener, they're going to face a strong Detroit Lions football team — strong in one position, that is.

That position is the quarterback spot and the Lions have two able men to choose from. Coach Joe Schmidt, who says "our quarterback situation is the best since the Bobby Layne days," has decided to go with Bill Munson, leaving Greg Landry to prove his superiority later.

"We're starting Munson because he came off of last season starting," Schmidt said Thursday. But he added that preseason competition would determine who will start the regular season.

Quarterbacks Had Good Year
 Both Munson and Landry had good seasons last year. Landry won five games of the seven started while Munson sat out with a fractured hand. Munson won four of the seven he started at the beginning and end of the season.

Munson is the veteran of six years in the NFL, while Landry has only two seasons under his belt.

Nevertheless, Landry exudes confidence. "I came back here this year with the feeling that I was the No. 1 quarterback," says the 23-year-old Landry. Landry said Schmidt's decision to start Munson was fair, but he added that with last year's experience, he's ready to take over Munson's job anytime.

"If I want to move ahead by the time the season starts, then I'm going to have to play a little bit better than Bill when I get my chance to play during this pre-season period," Landry said. Schmidt has made it clear that once the season is underway, he will not switch quarterbacks in midgame.

Must Decide On One
 "It promotes a lot of trouble," the Lions coach said. "We've got to decide in training camp on one quarterback and stick with our decision."

So with only six preseason games scheduled, Munson and Landry find themselves under pressure to excel since one of them is going to sit on the bench in September.

Come Saturday, both teams will have had only one week of training as a team. The National Football League Players Association strike ended Monday and Lions veterans, who had stayed away from the Cranbrook training camp for its duration, reported for practice during the first part of the week.

Alex Karras, who refused to report to the club pending settlement of a salary dispute, Karras has been in Clinton, Iowa, visiting his in-laws, but he was expected to return Thursday to discuss the salary dispute with his attorney.

The 250-pound Karras has been all-pro selection four times and an extremely durable performer, playing in 146 consecutive games up to this season.

Munson is the veteran of six years in the NFL, while Landry has only two seasons under his belt.

Nevertheless, Landry exudes confidence. "I came back here this year with the feeling that I was the No. 1 quarterback," says the 23-year-old Landry.

Landry said Schmidt's decision to start Munson was fair, but he added that with last year's experience, he's ready to take over Munson's job anytime.

"If I want to move ahead by the time the season starts, then I'm going to have to play a little bit better than Bill when I get my chance to play during this pre-season period," Landry said. Schmidt has made it clear that once the season is underway, he will not switch quarterbacks in midgame.

Must Decide On One

"It promotes a lot of trouble," the Lions coach said. "We've got to decide in training camp on one quarterback and stick with our decision."

So with only six preseason games scheduled, Munson and Landry find themselves under pressure to excel since one of them is going to sit on the bench in September.

Come Saturday, both teams will have had only one week of training as a team. The National Football League Players Association strike ended Monday and Lions veterans, who had stayed away from the Cranbrook training camp for its duration, reported for practice during the first part of the week.

Alex Karras, who refused to report to the club pending settlement of a salary dispute, has been in Clinton, Iowa, visiting his in-laws, but he was expected to return Thursday to discuss the salary dispute with his attorney.

The 250-pound Karras has been all-pro selection four times and an extremely durable former, playing in 148 consecutive games up to this season.

Murder Photo Causes Linda To Lose Nerves

Court was hastily recessed Thursday after the petite victim was led from the stand weeping.

"She was terribly distraught," said Ronald Goldman, one of Mrs. Kasabian's attorneys. "We took her upstairs to lie down and put a cold compress on her head to try to calm her down."

Irving Kanarek, representing the shaggy-haired clan leader on trial in the slayings of Miss Tate and six others, pulled out the photograph while cross-examining Mrs. Kasabian, the state's star witness.

Kanarek was asking what Mrs. Kasabian had seen when she looked into a window of Miss Tate's home.

"I'll show you," said Kanarek as he flashed the photo in front of Mrs. Kasabian. He got no further. The witness recoiled, shifting in her chair and turning her head away. Then she broke down.

The picture showed the blonde Miss Tate wearing bikini pants and a bra, lying on the living room floor in front of the couch. The prosecution said the angle of the picture was meant to show her 16 stab wounds.

The photo, part of material the prosecution said it planned to present later, had not been entered in evidence. A prosecutor told newsmen he had not shown the photo to Mrs. Kasabian because "she is a sensitive girl" and there was no reason to do so because the state says she never entered the house where Miss Tate's body was found.

Attorneys for Mrs. Kasabian, 21-year-old mother of two, protested to the judge. In a conference with defense attorneys and prosecutors in the judge's chambers, Goldman alleged that Kanarek had no question to ask relating to the picture, but "did it for no other purpose than to cause my client serious distress."

Goldman said later the judge ruled that in the future, before any exhibit is shown to a witness, the state will be given the chance to object.

Murder Photo Causes Linda To Lose Nerves

Court was hastily recessed Thursday after the petite witness was led from the stand weeping.

"She was terribly distraught," said Ronald Goldman, one of Mrs. Kasabian's attorneys. "We took her upstairs to lie down and put a cold compress on her head to try to calm her down."

Irving Kanarek, representing the shaggy-haired can leader on trial in the slayings of Miss Tate and six others, pulled out the photograph while cross-examining Mrs. Kasabian, the state's star witness.

Kanarek was asking what Mrs. Kasabian had seen when she looked into a window of Miss Tate's home.

"I'll show you ...," said Kanarek as he flashed the photo in front of Mrs. Kasabian. He got no further. The witness recoiled, shifting in hr chair and turning her head away. Then she broke down.

The picture showed the blonde Miss Tate wearing bikini pants and a bra, lying on the living room floor in front of the couch. The prosecution said the

Nixon May Get Control Okay - Like It Or Not

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic-controlled Congress has moved a step closer to giving President Nixon standby authority to control prices, wages and rents—authority which Nixon has said he would not use.

Voting almost entirely on party lines, a Senate-House conference committee Thursday approved the House action writing the standby authority for ceilings into a bill to extend the Defense Production Act.

Sources said all the Democratic conferences from both chambers voted for the provision and were joined by Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., while all the other Republican conferees voted against it.

The bill now goes to both chambers for final action. When the House voted 18 to 41 a week ago to adopt the provision, Rep. John B. Anderson, R-Ill., chairman of the House Republican Conference, said, "You are trying to write a little scenario for the 1970 (congressional) elections. This is the most blatant partisanship and political gamesmanship."

But House Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., denied the purpose was to set up an opportunity for Democratic candidates to blame continued inflation on Nixon's refusal to invoke the controls.

He and others argued Nixon needs such a "shotgun in the corner" to strengthen his anti-inflation efforts—even if he never invokes mandatory limits.

Railroads Need Financial Help, U.S. Senate Told

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. railroad system could collapse unless taxpayers prop it up with billions of dollars, the former chief financial officers for the Penn Central has testified.

David C. Bevan told a Senate subcommittee Thursday that billions would be required to modernize the nation's railroads.

He made the statement Thursday as the Penn Central Co. reported it lost $123 million in the first half of 1970. Its rail operations reported a $141.6 million deficit.

The $123 million loss contrasted with a $26.4 million profit during the same period last year. Freight and passenger revenues climbed nearly 5 percent, but expenses soared almost 10 percent, the railroad said.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., chairman of the Senate subcommittee, asked if the days of the railroad empire were numbered.

"I think it's a possibility, unless a program is worked out very rapidly," Bevan replied.

Market Keeps Up Fluttering Ways

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued to flutter aimlessly early this afternoon in slow trading.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 0.55 at 723.37.

Declines held a slim margin over advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts explained the market drift as normal in the absence of any major news developments and continued uneasiness over which way the economy might be going.

Most investors have retired to the sidelines until the market makes up its mind which way to go, brokers said. So far, it seemed confined within a 25-point range on the Dow average, bounded by the 740 level on the upside and the 715-720 level on the downside, they pointed out.

At noon the Associated Press 60-stock average was up 0.5 at 239.5, with industrials up 0.4, rails up 0.4, and utilities up 0.5.

CAPTAIN AND FAMILY CREW of the "Rose of Sharon" are (from left) Roy Wildman and his wife, Helen, and his father, Mitchell Wildman, and the Wildman children Kasey and Kelley. They are pictured aboard the "Rose" at the Escanaba boat basin, where they are fitting out the 52-foot schooner for a two-year adventure cruise to the Mediterranean and possibly the South Pacific. 'Rose' Readied For Sailing Adventure

By CLINT DUNATHAN

A California family will sail away to adventure within a week or so — crewing the 52-foot schooner "Rose of Sharon" they bought in Escanaba.

"We may be gone two years, we may get to the South Pacific — but by this fall we should be in the Azores ahead of storm season on the Atlantic," says Roy Wildman of Irvine, Calif., new owner of the "Rose."

Teachers Attend Home Economics Meeting At NMU

MARQUETTE — The Home Economics Department at Northern Michigan University and the Home Economics and Family Life Education Service of the Vocational Division of the Michigan Department of Education are co-sponsoring a consumer education curriculum and materials project for high school home economics instructors.

The project, which is scheduled to run through April, 1971, is funded through a grant of $7,200 from the Vocational Division of the Michigan Department of Education.

Among the criteria used in selecting participants for this workshop was that they represent geographic areas of the Upper Peninsula; have their school administration's approval to use curriculum and materials developed in the workshop; be willing to attend a follow-up evaluation session in April, 1971; and be willing to serve as leaders for workshops for other teachers in the region where they teach.

Persons selected to receive stipends to assist in defraying the expenses included Mrs. Patricia Londo of Hermansville and Mrs. Sylvia Ostanek of Treenary.

buildings and bus equipment, can issue up to $10 billion in bonds.

Postmaster General Wilson M. Bonni, who said he will give postal managers the freedom needed to cut the queue on a businesslike basis, nonetheless warned that changes in service will come slowly at first.

"The system is a vast and had been in the past was for many years we're not going to turn it around overnight," he said at a news conference after the House gave final congressional approval to the reform bill.

It was what Bonni termed "the system" that caused former Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien to remark in 1967 that "The Post Office is in a race with disaster."

VFW Post Will Meet On Monday

Hawatna VFW Post Commander Mark DeGrand announced today that plans for Monday's meeting are complete with the main session due to begin at 8.

The post is still searching for a custodian for the VFW Hall. A life membership is awarded members who complete their term as custodian of the hall, DeGrand reminded veterans.

The schooner, long an object of beauty admired by local boatmen, was the pride of the late Charles W. Stoll of Escanaba. Before his death on June 7 this year, concerned for the future of his boat, Mr. Stoll wrote to the president of the Schooner Association in California.

Crew Of Five
Friends said he wanted the "Rose" in the ownership of sailors who appreciated her special qualities and authentic and early breed.

"That's how I heard about her," said Wildman, a boat manufacturer in Irvine. "The Association, you see, is primarily concerned with the racing and maintenance of schooners such as this one."

Wildman's family includes his wife, Helen, (she's a qualified navigator who has sailed the Pacific); their two daughters, Kasey 7 and Kelley 9; and Wildman's father — Mitchell Wildman, 67 years old.

Winter In Portugal
Plans are to leave Escanaba (there will be some friends aboard also) for the first leg of the cruise down the Great Lakes and out to the Atlantic, said Wildman.

"The Azores will be our first stop in Europe," he said. "While I've never sailed the Atlantic, it shouldn't take us more than 10 or 12 days to get there — and we want to make it early enough to get ahead of the fall gales."

Once at the Azores it will be easy sailing to Lisbon, where they expect to winter on the south coast of Portugal and then run on into the Mediterranean, where they will spend the summer of 1971.

Briefly Told

Winner of the Head Start sponsored promotion this summer was Durward Chase of Wells, announced Ted Broeders of Escanaba, parent chairman.

The Escanaba Business and Professional Women's Club will hold a dinner meeting at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 11, at the Lake Bluff Country Club. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Norma O'Brien, 786-3494 or Mrs. Blanche Papineau, 786-4600. It will be a social meeting and no business will be transacted.

Members of the Silver Spur Saddle Club will hold the annual lawn party at the home of Napoleon Sharkey at Perkins on Saturday afternoon. Members participating in the trail ride should gather at 11 a.m. and bring a travel lunch. Non-riders will gather about 3 p.m. for games and a picnic supper.

All tennis courts in the city including the Senior High courts are reserved for the Michigan - Wisconsin Tennis tournament Saturday and Sunday of this week and will not be available to the general public. Local youngsters are reminded that both lighted courts at Ludington Park are limited to adult use after 8 o'clock in the evening.

Representatives of the Marquette, Houghton and Escanaba League of Women Voters will appear on WLUC-TV at 3 p.m. Saturday and at 12 noon Sunday. Mrs. Frank Neumeier will participate in the information program with Mrs. Ed Haas of Houghton and Mrs. Marilyn Gorski of Marquette.

City Selected For 'Hamfest'

Escanaba and Gladstone amateur radio operators (HAMS) will host the 1971 "Hamfest" on July 31-Aug. 1.

Selection of Escanaba for the two day meeting of U.P. radio operators was made at the 1970 meeting in Iron Mountain hosted by the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Radio Club.

Al Salmi of Gladstone was named Hamfest chairman. He will be assisted by Tom Elegeert and Hank Olson, both of Escanaba. Other local residents on the planning committee include Lee Anderson, Aileen Gagnon, Al Rousseau and Walt Johnson, all of Gladstone, and Jim Emerson and Dean Manley of Escanaba.

Salmi said he expects a large number of amateur radio operators and their families to Escanaba for the meeting. About 250 HAMS attended this year's event at Iron Mountain.

At the meeting, Jim Wheeler of Iron Mountain was named to continue as manager of the Sunday Upper Peninsula net and Tom Elegeert of Escanaba assumes the position as manager of the U.P. evening net. The net meets every week night on 3920 kilocycles at 5:30 p.m. EST. Any HAM operator is invited to participate.

Spain Agrees To U.S. Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — A five-year agreement on military bases has been signed by the United States and Spain amid demands from members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for a public explanation on why it should not be a formal treaty subject to Senate approval.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Spain's foreign minister, Gregorio Lopez Bravo, signed the pact Thursday and issued a statement calling the agreement one which "initiates a new era of partnership" between the two nations.

But Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, saying he spoke for a majority of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he does not approve of "secret deals with the Franco government, particularly of the kind that could involve us in a war."

The pact is in the form of an executive agreement which does not require the Senate's advice and consent. The committee had sought swift public hearings on the extension of the U.S. right to use three air bases and one naval base in Spain. The arrangement had been agreed on in private negotiations.

Berlin Not Topic
The Soviet-German treaty does not take up the question of divided Berlin although the Germans wanted guarantees of free access to West Berlin. But the Bonn government has already said the West German parliament will not ratify the treaty until a "satisfactory Berlin solution" is worked out at the Big Four ambassadorial talks now being held in West Berlin.

300 Youths Spoil Day For 30,000 At Disneyland

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Because 300 youths didn't behave themselves, Disneyland officials say, nearly 30,000 visitors to the world-famous Magic Kingdom had to be sent away.

The giant amusement park closed more than five hours early Thursday night after about 300 long-haired, self-proclaimed Yippies gathered for a rally at Disneyland's make-believe city hall.

The group, officials said, shouted obscenities, unfurled a Viet Cong flag and a "marijuana flag," tore down some red, white and blue bunting and "presented a menace to the safety of others."

Some 100 riot-clad police, carrying batons, were ordered into the amusement park after the youngsters refused to stop their rally and a march down Main Street.

As the police moved in, loud speakers instructed visitors to leave the 73-acre park. The crowd of 29,895 passed through the turnstile exits within two hours. The park normally closes at 1 a.m.

been a major issue in West Germany since the Western allies agreed at the 1945 Potsdam conference to Polish occupation of German territory east of the Oder and Neisse rivers. Although the Potsdam agreement specified this was a temporary arrangement, until a German peace treaty was concluded, Poland's expulsion of most of the German population and the cold war division of Europe long ago made apparent that Oder-Neisse was in fact Germany's eastern boundary.

Computerized Election Plan Falts Badly

DETROIT (AP) — In the backwash of a monumental botchup that developed in Detroit's first computerized election this week, City Clerk George C. Edwards says he maintains confidence in the accuracy of the tabulations.

The 30-year-old clerk, who promoted the use of a computerized punch-card system and whose political future may rest with the cards, says he doesn't know, however, if he'll recommend computers for the November general elections.

The voting was Tuesday. He was still counting late Thursday.

A computer system hopefully programmed to give Detroit its fastest count ever, may have set a record for tardiness.

More than 36 hours after the highly-touted computers were scheduled to spew forth results, the outcome in some races still were unknown. Several thousand votes still were to be counted and 14 precincts remained to be heard from.

A dream-turned-nightmare began shortly after polls closed, when Datamedia Computer Service Inc., of Dallas, ran a test at five counting centers — and the computers flunked. Edwards and Datamedia officials spent several hours tracking down what had happened. They found an extra, unwanted hole in the test card.

By the time experts corrected the error, some private companies which had donated their own computers to assist, asked to have them back to meet their business needs.

That cut from six to three the number of computers in service for most of Wednesday. A fourth computer was pulled off civic duty temporarily for private office work.

Electronic election problems were compounded Wednesday when numerous weary election workers went home at the end of their shifts and didn't come back.

"I think it's a possibility, unless a program is worked out very rapidly," Bevan replied.

Market Keeps Up Fluttering Ways

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued to flutter aimlessly early this afternoon in slow trading.

At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 0.55 at 723.37.

Declines held a slim margin over advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts explained the market drift as normal in the absence of any major news developments and continued uneasiness over which way the economy might be going.

Most investors have retired to the sidelines until the market makes up its mind which way to go, brokers said. So far, it seemed confined within a 25-point range on the Dow average, bounded by the 740 level on the upside and the 715-720 level on the downside, they pointed out.

At noon the Associated Press 60-stock average was up 0.5 at 239.5, with industrials up 0.4, rails up 0.4, and utilities up 0.5.

Family Plans Cruise:

'Rose' Readied For Sailing Adventure

By CLINT DUNATHAN

A California family will sail away to adventure within a week or so — crewing the 52-foot schooner "Rose of Sharon" they bought in Escanaba.

"We may be gone two years, we may get to the South Pacific — but by this fall we should be in the Azores ahead of storm season on the Atlantic," says Roy Wildman of Irvine, Calif., new owner of the "Rose."

Teachers Attend Home Economics Meeting At NMU

MARQUETTE — The Home Economics Department at Northern Michigan University and the Home Economics and Family Life Education Service of the Vocational Division of the Michigan Department of Education are co-sponsoring a consumer education curriculum and materials project for high school home economics instructors.

The project, which is scheduled to run through April, 1971, is funded through a grant of $7,200 from the Vocational Division of the Michigan Department of Education.

Among the criteria used in selecting participants for this workshop was that they represent geographic areas of the Upper Peninsula; have their school administration's approval to use curriculum and materials developed in the workshop; be willing to attend a follow-up evaluation session in April, 1971; and be willing to serve as leaders for workshops for other teachers in the region where they teach.

Persons selected to receive stipends to assist in defraying the expenses included Mrs. Patricia Londo of Hermansville and Mrs. Sylvia Ostanek of Trenary.

buildings and buy equipment, can issue up to $10 billion in bonds.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, who says the bill gives postal managers the freedom needed to put the mails on a businesslike basis, nonetheless warned that changes in service will come slowly at first.

"The system is so vast and had been run this way for so many years we're not going to turn it around overnight," he said at a news conference after the House gave final congressional approval to the reform bill.

It was what Blount terms "the system" that caused former Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien to remark in 1967 that "the Post Office is in a race with disaster."

VFW Post Will Meet On Monday

Hiawatha VFW Post Commander Mark DeGrand announced today that plans for Monday's meeting are complete with the main session due to begin at 8.

The post is still searching for a custodian for the VFW Hall. A life membership is awarded members who complete their term as custodian of the hall, DeGrand reminded veterans.

City Selected For 'Hamfest'

Escanaba and Gladstone amateur radio operators (HAMS) will host the 1971 "Hamfest" on July 31-Aug. 1.

Selection of Escanaba for the two day meeting of U.P. radio operators was made at the 1970 meeting in Iron Mountain hosted by the Iron Mountain-Kingsford Radio Club.

Al Salmi of Gladstone was named Hamfest chairman. He will be assisted by Tom Elegeert and Hank Olson, both of Escanaba. Other local residents on the planning committee include Lee Anderson, Aileen Gagnon, Al Rousseau and Walt Johnson, all of Gladstone, and Jim Emerson and Dean Manley of Escanaba.

Salmi said he expects a large number of amateur radio operators and their families to Escanaba for the meeting. About 250 HAMS attended this year's event at Iron Mountain.

At the meeting, Jim Wheeler of Iron Mountain was named to continue as manager of the Sunday Upper Peninsula net and Tom Elegeert of Escanaba assumes the position as manager of the U.P. evening net. The net meets every week night on 3920 kilocycles at 5:30 p.m. EST. Any HAM operator is invited to participate.

been a major issue in West Germany since the Western allies agreed at the 1945 Potsdam conference to Polish occupation of German territory east of the Oder and Neisse rivers. Although the Potsdam agreement specified this was a temporary arrangement, until a German peace treaty was concluded, Poland's expulsion of most of the German population and the cold war division of Europe long ago made apparent that Oder-Neisse was in fact Germany's eastern boundary.

Berlin Not Topic

The Soviet-German treaty does not take up the question of divided Berlin although the Germans wanted guarantees of free access to West Berlin. But the Bonn government has already said the West German parliament will not ratify the treaty until a "satisfactory Berlin solution" is worked out at the Big Four ambassadorial talks now being held in West Berlin.

300 Youths Spoil Day For 30,000 At Disneyland

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Because 300 youths didn't behave themselves, Disneyland officials say, nearly 30,000 visitors to the world-famous Magic Kingdom had to be sent away.

The giant amusement park closed more than five hours early Thursday night after about 300 long-haired, self-proclaimed Yippies gathered for a rally at Disneyland's make-believe city hall.

The group, officials said, shouted obscenities, unfurled a Viet Cong flag and a "marijuana flag," tore down some red, white and blue bunting and "presented a menace to the safety of others."

Some 100 riot-clad police, carrying batons, were ordered into the amusement park after the youngsters refused to stop their rally and a march down Main Street.

As the police moved in, loud speakers instructed visitors to leave the 73-acre park. The crowd of 29,895 passed through the turnstile exits within two hours. The park normally closes at 1 a.m.

Spain Agrees To U.S. Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — A five-year agreement on military bases has been signed by the United States and Spain amid demands from members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for a public explanation on why it should not be a formal treaty subject to Senate approval.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Spain's foreign minister, Gregorio Lopez Bravo, signed the pact Thursday and issued a statement calling the agreement one which "initiates a new era of partnership" between the two nations.

But Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, saying he spoke for a majority of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he does not approve of "secret deals with the Franco government, particularly of the kind that could involve us in a war."

The pact is in the form of an executive agreement which does not require the Senate's advice and consent. The committee had sought swift public hearings on the extension of the U.S. right to use three air bases and one naval base in Spain. The arrangement had been agreed on in private negotiations.

Computerized Election Plan Falters Badly

DETROIT (AP)—In the backwash of a monumental botchup that developed in Detroit's first computerized election this week, City Clerk George C. Edwards says he maintains confidence in the accuracy of the tabulations.

The 30-year-old clerk, who promoted the use of a computerized punch-card system and whose political future may rest with the cards, says he doesn't know, however, if he'll recommend computers for the November general elections.

The voting was Tuesday. He was still counting late Thursday.

A computer system hopefully programed to give Detroit its fastest count ever, may have set a record for tardiness.

More than 36 hours after the highly-touted computers were scheduled to spew forth results, the outcome in some races still were unknown. Several thousand votes still were to be counted and 14 precincts remained to be heard from.

A dream-turned-nightmare began shortly after polls closed, when Datamedia Computer Service Inc., of Dallas, ran a test at five counting centers — and the computers flunked. Edwards and Datamedia officials spent several hours tracking down what had happened. They found an extra, unwanted hole in the test card.

By the time experts corrected the error, some private companies which had donated their own computers to assist, asked to have them back to meet their business needs.

That cut from six to three the number of computers in service for most of Wednesday. A fourth computer was pulled off civic duty temporarily for private office work.

Electronic election problems were compounded Wednesday when numerous weary election workers went home at the end of their shifts and didn't come back.
